This is my second favorite holiday just for Christmas, but it has a special place in my heart because I get back-back goodness from my birthday and then, 24 hours later, all the goodness Halloween brings. Folks at DualBoot Games (creators of other live wallpapers such as Celtic Garden HD) have whipped another one for us, this time all scary and creepy, just in time for Halloween. It's called Haunted House HD, and as far as the live wallpaper is concerned, despite being time sensitive, it's probably one of the most detailed I've come across. From the moment you open the selected live wallpaper and choose Haunted House HD, the Halloween will vbe over you. The camera pans along the creepy house, shinged in fog as the lights flash and turn off each other. Jack-o-lamps guard the door and terrible messages appear through the door in the blood. It's all pretty smooth, despite the fact that so much is going on. The door opens and closes on its own, while the camera moves backwards, the lights are lit, the window reveals the silhouette, and the flag on the mailbox moves up and down on its own side. To go into the house, you will need to jump into a fully loaded menu setting and change the camera view. The interior of the house is also (if not more) occupied as an exteriour. The lights are still flashing, the fire is pale, the ghost blue, and the images have skulls above the subject's face. The ethereal steps flicker and disappear on the ground, and the strange breeze tos the sheath. It's a lot to take, but it's still super fun. Back in the settings menu when I said loaded, I meant it. You can select a camera view, set the mailbox and port name, select the type of face you want for pumpkins, and individually enable or disable each background variable that it offers. If you feel like getting into the holiday spirit, Haunted House HD is $1.99 on Android Market. We have several pictures and download links after the break. Google's Pixel 2 has been hinged on one of the best phones of the year, while a model other than the XL may not The most attractive hardware, both variants will ship with some of the best Android software around. One of the many features displayed at the 4 October announcement event is the Pixel 2 updated live wallpaper, and thanks to a developer named Pranav Pandey, you can now download these on any Android phone running 6.0 Marshmallow or more. Last year's Pixel introduced live earth wallpapers that have shifted with a home screen to create for some added depth, while live pixel 2 wallpapers take things a step further by introducing even more moving and interactive parts. One wallpaper shows Lagos, Portugal with downed waves on a rocky shore, while another shows hot air balloons flying over Monument Valley, Utah. There are also Glimmer wallpapers that brighten up when you touch your home screen, goeoy ones with a virtual goo that responds and transforms based on your taps and scrolls, and even real-time views of Mars and the Moon. If it seems that many pixel 2 features have recently been switched to other phones, it's because they were. Static Pixel 2 wallpapers were available for download before these live, and along with that, the Pixel 2's launcher and camera app were also released. The Pixel 2 is an expensive phone, and while these apps and wallpapers won't give you the same experiences you find in Google's latest and biggest version, they can certainly get you close.
