If you want to get ahead in 2021, these are four simple things you have to do every day. Asian stock markets got the new year off to a solid start on Monday on expectations the central bank will keep money super cheap, while the introduction of coronavirus vaccines is helping to slowly revive the global economy. MSCI's broadest index of Asia-Pacific shares outside Japan edged up 0.1%, a hair's-drop from a record high. Japan's Nikkei rose 0.4% to reach peaks not seen since August 1990, when it added 16% last year. China's securities regulator said On Sunday that the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE) plans to disqualify three Chinese telecommunications firms are political and that the impact will be limited. The NYSE on Thursday said it would qualify China Mobile Ltd, China Unicom Hong Kong Ltd and China Telecom Corp Ltd after President Donald Trump's move in November to bar U.S. investment in 31 companies that Washington says are owned or controlled by the Chinese military. MSCI's broadest index of Asia-Pacific shares outside Japan edged up 0.1%, a hair's-drop from a record high. Japan's Nikkei rose 0.4% to reach peaks not seen since August 1990, when it added 16% last year. Investors are cautiously watching the run-off election in Georgia for two seats in the U.S. Senate on Tuesday that will determine which party controls the Senate.The Australian Associated PressLabor says the federal government should take seriously reports of ties between a Chinese businessman being judged as a security risk and two Liberal MPs. (Bloomberg) - Indonesian rupees may be on the cusp of a rally. Its rebound the worst performing Asian currency at Number 2 in the last three months of 2020 signals the potential for further gains. Eliminating U.S. electoral risk and supporting the development of a coronavirus vaccine will help the rise of rupees to near-resistance to 13,873, its 8th. A Bloomberg poll shows that up to 13,600 will be reached by the end of the first quarter. We expect stronger fiscal support under the Biden administration, which will bode well for the U.S. economy, global growth and investor sentiment, which is a key positive for risky currencies such as IDR, said Irene Cheung, FX strategist at Australia & New Zealand Banking Group Ltd. in Singapore.Rupiah's year-end rally mostly erased its annual losses, but it was still Asia's second-worst performer of 2020 after the Indian rupee. However, tailwinds for the currency are rising as Indonesia is expected to attract one of the highest inflows in Asia after reviving global risk sentiment once the vaccine becomes widely available. Cheung sees bear currencies or high yields such as rupees to be attractive as the Federal Reserve remains highly accomodative. Indonesia's 10-year yield fell by 117 basis points in 2020, but its distribution to the treasury is still among the highest in the region. Foreign funds were net sellers of $4.7 billion of Indonesian debt last year, indicating the potential for inflows as investors deploy cash at the start of the year. Near-term stimulus for rupees would come from inflation data on Monday. The central bank kept rates on hold in its latest review amid favorable consumer prices. The median estimate in a Bloomberg survey predicts December inflation at 1.67% year-on-year, in line with the November reading. (NASDAQ: EYPT), a pharmaceutical company committed to developing and commercializing innovative eye products, today announced that Therapeutics, China-based China-based The Hong Kong-traded pharmaceutical company (1477.HK) made a $15.7 million equity investment in EyePoint. Under the terms of the agreement, Ocumension purchased approximately 3.01 million shares of EyePoint common stock at a five-day closing volume weighted average price as of the close of trading on December 29, 2020 of approximately $5.22 per share. This investment underscores our continued strong partnership with Ocumension for YUTIQ and DEXYCU in Asia, said Nancy Lurker, President and CEO of EyePoint Pharmaceuticals. We are excited about the significant potential of these products both in the US and Asia and for our research and development, including the Phase 1 EYP-1901 wet age-related macular degeneration study, which is expected to begin in the coming months. We are pleased to support our partnership with EyePoint through this investment as we prepare to develop and commercialize YUTIQ and DEXYCU under the Ocumension brands in Asian markets, said Ye Liu, CEO of Ocumension. We share EyePoint's commitment to the rapid development of new treatments for eye diseases in attractive markets and look forward to commercial launches in China next year. In conjunction with the investment, Ye Liu, CEO of Ocumension was appointed to the Board of Directors of EyePoint, who replaced Kristine Peterson, who resigned from the Board of Directors with effect December 31, 2020.Cash and cash equivalents are estimated at approximately $44 million as of December 31, 2020, including net proceeds from ocumension capital investments. The estimate of cash and cash equivalents as at December 31, 2020 was calculated before the completion of the review by the company's independent registered accounting firm and is therefore subject to adjustments. Cash, combined with cash inflows from anticipated product sales and ongoing cash conservation activities, is expected to fund the Company's operating plan through the second half of 2021, provided there is no significant increase in COVID-19-related closures that would significantly reduce the frequency of visits to the ophthalmology office or the number of cataract surgery performed in the U.S., Inc.
