Toy story drop level 51

The fourth Toy Story movie is coming up, and Big Fish Games just released Toy Story Drop! on iOS and Android to help us contain our excitement. The game is a match-three puzzle with all your favorite characters from the movie series, including Woody, Buzz Lightyear, Jessie, and, of course, the beautiful aliens! Andy is on his way back from Cowboy Camp, and it's up to you to help the toys prepare for his return. Solve dozens of puzzles to collect Playset pieces! The puzzles start easily as the game teaches you the ropes. However, the difficulty level ramps up quickly. Soon you'll find yourself having trouble completing puzzles or collecting batteries. If you find yourself stuck in any of the levels, don't worry. Just read our Toy story drop! guide for tips, cheats and tricks to solve every puzzle! 1. Create powered pieces If you've played other match-three games before, you'd be familiar with powered pieces. These are pieces that have special abilities when you use them. You can create powered tiles by matching four or more pieces of the same color. The more you combine, the better the consequences will be. Check out the list of powered pieces below, so you have a better idea of how to use each one in Toy Story Drop! Rocket - Fits four tiles into a square pattern to make a rocket. Using this will clear tiles in the normal way, but it will also send a rocket outing that will destroy a random target tile. Target tiles are the ones you need to clean up as part of a level's goal. Jack in the Box - Fit four tiles in a row or column to create it. Using the Jack in the Box clears an entire row or column depending on how the piece is made. Bouncy Ball - Fits 5 pieces into an L or T form to get the Bouncy Ball. Its use creates an explosion that takes out surrounding pieces. Disco Ball - Matching 5 pieces in a straight line creates a Disco Ball. Swap it with any piece to destroy all instances of that piece from the board. Tapping on it would rather clear all the batteries on the board. 2. Mix and customize powered tiles Noudal you know how to create powered pieces, it's time to combine them. Using two powered tiles at the same time will lead to better effects, allowing you to clear even more tiles from the board. First, cleaning two Jack in the Box tiles will clear both a row and a column. You can also combine a Bouncy Ball with a Jack in the Box to clear three rows and columns. Two Bouncy Balls used together will result in a bigger explosion. Combining a Jack in the Box or a Bouncy Ball with a rocket will make the rocket take the other powered tile with it when it flies to the random spot. Combining a Disco Ball with Others tiles will create multiple instances of that power across the board. 3. Take your time you don't really have to worry about solving puzzles right away. The restriction restriction here's the number of moves you can make, so feel free to take your time. It's best if you first analyze the entire board and consider the various moves available. Never make a match for the sake of just doing something. You can at least clear tiles that would set up later for a better combination. The higher the level of the puzzle, the more thought you will have to put into planning each movement. 4. Save your boost at the beginning of each level, you get the option to take a boost with you. This boost can help you clear the levels, but they are limited. If you don't plan on spending real money, it's best if you avoid using your boost unless you're really stuck. Always try to clear levels on your own first. Most of the time you will be able to solve puzzle without using boost. If you've tried a few times and you still can't clear a specific level, it's okay to use a boost. At least you'll have a better idea about how to fix a puzzle and what boost to take with you once you try to solve it several times. 5. When to use the claw and saucer There are two additional boosts in Toy story drop! that can be selected while playing a level. That's the clown and the saucer. The Claw allows you to swap any two tiles on the board. The Saucer clears a single tile on the board. Although it seems useful, they are also limited. Don't use it if you feel you can complete the level if you're just trying again. The only time you have to use one of them is when you've failed a level multiple times and sure that cleaning or swapping one more tile will help you finally solve a puzzle. 6. Use coins only when in a pinch of coins is the game's regular currency. You earn 10 coins every time you clear a level. It's not a lot considering how much you need to spend. Therefore, you need to hold onto your coins as long as you do. Only spend coins when you've tried to solve a puzzle multiple times and are sure you can actually finish it if you buy those last five moves. 7. How to unlock new locations unlocked new locations requires batteries. One way to get batteries is to buy them using coins, but since it's as difficult to get coins as it is, you should avoid spending them this way. The best way to get more batteries is to simply play old levels repeatedly. You get free batteries, even if you play a level, so you can just keep grinding. Once you have enough, you'll be able to unlock a new scene. There are also bonus adventures available in the game. You get hidden scenes involving the characters to watch as you complete their respective playsets. Each playset has several The Porkchop Express playset, for example, has four pieces. You just need to keep replaying levels in order to unlock these bonus scenes from your favorite characters. It's time to help the toys over a hundred puzzles in Toy Story Drop! Be sure to follow the tips and tricks listed above and you will solve puzzles one after another!
