Ghost hunters season 3 episode 19

The producers of This Is Us suggested some time ago that we would spend a lot of time with Jack in Vietnam this season, and today's gruelling episode will surely be fine on this promise. Spotlighting Milo Ventimiglia and set entirely in the past, Vietnam is finally beginning to fill some gaps when it comes to Jack's military service, and his relationship with his brother Nicky. There was a lot to process, so here are six key things you might miss. This content is imported from {embed-name}. You can find the same content in a different format or you can find more information on your website. NBC's Kevin contacted a man named Mr. Robinson last week, asking for information about Jack. Today we met a young Don Robinson (Mo McRae), a soldier who served alongside Jack in Vietnam and shared a relationship with him alongside a good-natured rivalry. As soon as Don started talking about his post-Vietnamese dreams of playing major league baseball, it was important to know that something terrible was coming, and we're not sure we'll ever recover from Jack's eyes, which hands Don his own severed foot.2 Wounded soldier Jack kept in the season premiere not Nicky. When Rebecca asks Jack about the war on their first date, and he downplays how horrible it was, telling her he was just a mechanic, we saw a quick look of a bloodied Jack holding someone in his arms. Since the shot came just before Nicky mentioned it, many viewers assumed that we had witnessed an insight into the scene of his brother's death. But this episode contains the full version of that moment, which sees Jack cradling Don after he loses his leg. Which means we have no idea how Nicky will die, whether Jack will be there with him when he does it, or even whether he is really dead. If there's one thing we've learned, it's questioning everything!3 It was Don who taught Jack how to breathe. One of the most poignant recurring themes throughout the show was Jack teaching Randall how to breathe through his panic attacks, remember the gut-wrenching scene when Randall did the same for William in his dying moments? No wonder Jack didn't learn this technique from his own father. Instead, he learned this from Don, who (even though he had just lost a limb) needed a moment to comfort Jack when he was to be medically evacuated. You're afraid, Pearson says Don Jack, asking if he'll ever get tired of behaving as if he wasn't. In response, Don puts his hand on Jack's side of his face and tells him to breathe, telling him: Sometimes we are so scared that we will die, we forget to do what keeps us alive. Jack clearly carried it with him, and years later he taught his son about it. It was so emotional! NBC 4. Jack was not drafted, but voluntarily enlisted in the I don't see it coming! Jack had a sick leave that meant he avoided the project (more on that in a second), but Nicky's number showed up. Jack has always been extremely caring for his younger brother – Nicky only semi-ironically refers to himself as Lois Lane to Superman Jack – and so immediately comes the plan to Nicky to Canada to avoid war. But on the way, Nicky slips out of their motel room in the middle of the night, leaving a note that explains that he's not going to flee the project. It's my turn to save the day, he writes. But Nicky still needs savings, at least when it comes to Jack. Nicky comes up with a letter indicating that he's not doing well in Vietnam — he's disciplined and writes disturbing phrases like I know I'm not going to leave this place alive and so Jack has to find him. I just have to be where he is, even if I can't get to him, the doctor says. Even if I can't do anything for him, I just have to be there. He is my younger brother. My job is to take care of him. 5. Jack had a long history of heart problems before his sudden death. As we all know painfully well right now, it's not the house fire that directly killed Jack, but the heart attack caused by inhaling smoke. And as it turns out, there were warning signs. Jack had a tachycardia (an exceptionally fast heartbeat) from childhood and it was serious enough to exempt him from the draft. Jack downplays the condition as harmless when he decides to enlist, but his doctor is clearly concerned. 6. Jack's father was not always a monster. NBC It was a pleasant surprise because Stanley Pearson was quite a one-note villain for most of the show. On the one hand, this episode offered much more painful details of how offensive he was to his wife and children, making it clear that his violence is a big part of why Jack is so caring for Nicky. There is also a brutal scene in which Marilyn, Jack's mom and Nicky, greeted the postman with a very visible bruise on her eye. That wasn't always the case, Marilyn tells her sons, after they both intervene to physically protect her from Stanley. And that's right: In a flashback to the day Nicky was born, Stanley is sweet and supportive, offering paternal advice to Jack in the waiting room. The appearance of Stanley's own father, a flask in his hand, does not point to some of his demons, still, one has to wonder what happened on earth over the next two decades to turn him into such a horrible man. It's been 38 days since Dexter killed his brother, The Ice Truck Killer. Debra lives with him and Doakes follows him wherever he goes, so he hasn't killed anyone since. When 13 dismembered bodies are found in Bay Harbor, the Miami Metro police department begins a massive manhunt for what the media call Bay Harbor Butcher. Dexter is very involved in the case, given the bodies they found were his. He dislikes the name Bay Harbor Butcher and instead prefers the Dark Defender, which some call him after it was revealed that the butcher only goes after criminals who have slipped through the law. Dexter survives, framing Sergeant Doakes for the murders. Dexter's relationship deepens. He learns that his father did not die of heart disease, but committed suicide after entering Dexter, working with one of his killings. Dexter is devastated by this disclosure, but ends up having a closer relationship with Debra, who has lived with him for several months because she can't sleep alone after discovering that The Ice Truck Killer was her boyfriend. Rita discovers that something is happening to Dexter and is taking drugs. He believes he is addicted to heroin and asks him to go to a 12-step program. In the program, he meets Lila, who takes him for coffee. He seems to be able to really see him and that scares him, so he doesn't want to come back. Dexter and Rita's relationship becomes even more complicated when Rita's mother stays with Rita and tells her that Dexter is hiding something. Dexter doesn't want to go back to NA, so Rita breaks up with him. Dexter begins dating Lila when she discovers that she sees the monster she is, though she doesn't know she's a murderer, and she doesn't care. Dexter, however, begins to realize that she is quite crazy and Rita seems to need it. It is a surprise to him that he really cares about Rita and the children. Dexter breaks up with Lila. Lila begins to make an appointment with Angel, using it to get to Dexter. He also breaks into Rita's house and finally kidnaps Astor and Cody and takes them to his apartment. Dexter finds them there and Lila locks him and the kids in her house and sets place on fire. They narrowly escape and then Dexter finds her and kills her. While participating in the 12-step program, Dexter decides that he no longer intends to give in to the urge to kill. He learns that his biological mother worked with Harry as an informant, and that's what killed her. One of the men who killed her is in prison, one dead and the other in a witness protection program. Dexter follows the one who is in protection and beats him, but resists the temptation to kill him. Later, the man finds him when Lila gives him the address. They fight, but the man escapes. Dexter follows him to his cab and decides he's who he is, so he kills him. Debra starts dating a guy from her gym, but it takes her a long time to trust him. Even after trusting him, he realizes that he has feelings for Special Agent Lundy, who was brought to the Bay Harbor Butcher case. They begin to meet, despite the age difference, and Debra is devastated when the case is closed and Lundy has to leave. James Doakes continues to follow Dexter in an attempt to establish his secret. At one point he follows him to a NA meeting and thinks he is addicted to heroin, but soon it turns out that this is not true. He finds Dexter in the cabin and learns that he is a Bay Harbor Butcher. They fight, and Dexter locks him in the cabin. After many conversations with Doakes, Dexter decides to turn on that in the long run will be easier for Rita and Deb, but at the last second decides to continue his plan to make Doakes as a butcher. While with Dexter, Debra gets a phone call that shuts down the butcher. Dexter rushes to the cabin, but the police are already there and the cabin is on fire. Later, it is connected that Lila used her GPS- for the cabin. There, Doakes told her that Dexter was a Bay Harbor Butcher. She turned on propane and lit a gas stove, blowing up Doakes to get closer to Dexter. Although Lieutenant LaGuerta does not believe this, Sergeant Doakes is officially listed as The Bay Harbor Butcher and his death is considered a suicide. Dexter can do business as usual. Before going to NA, Dexter has trouble killing his victims. Paul is killed in an altercation in prison, and Dexter doesn't understand Rita's guilt. Dexter says goodbye to his brother, The Ice Truck Killer, throwing the doll's head, which he left to Dexter in the water. Officer Pascal gets LaGuerta's job, but LaGuerta manages to slow her down, causing personal relationship problems while secretly sleeping with Pascal's fiancée. Dexter kills a copycat butcher from Bay Harbor. Lila frames Batista for rape, and Debra tries to get Lila out of town. Find out what's going to happen in Season 3 of Dexter. 3.
