I did 10 levels and beat the first boss and it's a lot of fun. But seriously who has you have a character to double jump for more than 20k coins. It is a basic game mechanic and of course you need it on some levels. It's easy to get if you 2x rewards (watch ads, it's boring), but I'm afraid this will only get worse as I progress through the game Rodrigo Cajá: The game has a good and interesting story, the gameplay is not boring, despite being a 2d game. The bad part is the bugs I've experienced on my device: I can't play some mini-games because my character starts flying sometimes and can't go through portals; physics breaks sometimes too (the character falls and takes a long time to get up, freeze). Also adding some basic information to weapons before getting them would prevent players from spending time and resources to buy/create something that isn't really useful. Autistic Weeb: Since the new update I have been able to play this game. Works decently enough for where I can actually play it without although I don't like the part where you have to get points just upgrade your weapon. they should have done it we're all you have to is to use gold.
