Learn more here >> To avoid extra baggage charges, we'll give you tips on not paying too much when you need to check in your luggage, or if you're just carrying carry-on luggage. Watch and enjoy the flight. Avoid excess luggage, but how? There are several ways to avoid extra charges for luggage (and no, you don't have to put all the clothes at the airport to reduce the space in your suitcase). Here are our 4 foolproof tips to avoid unnecessary luggage. 1. Pay for additional bags always online and not at the airport for 15-32 pounds about the average allowed checked baggage for almost all airlines in America and Europe. If you plan to do many things, it is best to pay for the extra suitcase online. In doing so, it is cheaper on the website of the airline or travel agency and at least 3 days in the past, as it reduces the operating costs of the plane. Airlines such as Aeromexico, Avianca and Latam charge an average of $50-$100 for an additional baggage fire, as well as low-cost airlines such as Spirit, VivaColombia and VivaAerobus between $5-30 per additional kilogram; these prices usually fall when you do so in advance on the airline's website. We recommend that you do this as soon as possible, as additional luggage spaces are limited. 2. Make sure that baggage sizes and weight before flying must be carried in hand luggage and checked baggage to avoid over-luggage. Exceeding dimensions can overpay. It also does not exceed weight limits. The weight of the backpack is also important to know how much space you need to return. If you have a scale, it might help you too much. There are also digital scales that are ideal for checking the weight of luggage. This is an investment that helps you avoid overpayment. Scales can be found for sale online or in specialized travel stores. See also these other accessories for your luggage, travel. 3. Split luggage with your traveling companion if you are already at the airport and to avoid excess luggage, the best thing you can do is share the weight that you travel with your friends, family or partner. Some airlines can be very strict. So escape to the bathroom and some excess is done with your partner's backpack. Don't forget your carry-on luggage, you can place certain things here if you don't put a lot of things in. 4. Start traveling easier With some old travel bags add a few extra pounds of weight. If you are a frequent flyer, the weight of these can begin to become a common problem. It is best to switch to lighter luggage or even a package. How about you start taking the trip into account and there wouldn't be so much excess baggage and weight? If you think about it a little bit, you can draw your conclusions after each trip about how much you actually use. When packing, keep in mind things that are prohibited in carry-on luggage, it is better to avoid them so that they do not suffer delays and safety problems. How much do airlines charge for excess baggage? The prices detailed below are usually ranges because the final price depends on factors: Depending on the route: whether it's domestic or international flightKia fare: whether it's a promotional fare, a tourist or a bus ride from the time you pay for it: if you do it at the time of booking, a few days before the flight or directly at the airport. In general, fares are one-way, so if you make the round trip, you need to consider it twice.
