You may be afraid, or you may not be sure that the problem is a real emergency. Both reasons are understandable, but if you have any pain, do not delay calling the dentist. His goal is to ease the pain. Know that even if the treatment hurts, it's nothing compared to what you can face down the road if you ignore the problem. Here is a guide to how soon you need to call your dentist if emergencies arise and what you need and don't need to do in the meantime. Tips for Treating Common Dental Emergencies Problem Avoid Professional Care ToothAche • Take an over-the-counter pain reliever. • Apply ice to the area. • Rinse your mouth with warm water. • Remove food particles between teeth with tooth-brushing. • Use heat. • Place aspirin or other analgesics directly on the tooth or gums. • Eat very hot, cold, sweet or spicy food. • Seek advice from your dentist. • Have the tooth examined as soon as possible. Broken tooth • Collect the broken pieces and rinse your mouth with warm water. • Take an over-the-counter analgesic if you have discomfort. • Place the tooth or chewing gum over the sharp edges of the tooth to prevent damage to the mouth tissue. • Eat hard food. • Call your dentist immediately for breaks that include dentin or cellulose (the inner layer of the tooth, the enamel) . • Call your dentist as soon as possible for crown or enamel fractures. Tooth knocked out • Pick up the tooth at the crown, not at the root. • Rinse the blood or dirt with milk or cold if milk is not available. • Replace the if possible, hold it in place with your finger gently pressed or with a clean cloth. If replacement is not possible, place the tooth in a milk container. Or, as a last resort, wrap it in a damp cloth. • Touch or scrub the root. • You must go to the dentist immediately. Teeth that are resused in the mouth within 30 minutes of injury are the best chance of survival. Broken or lost filling or crown • Save the filling or crown and take it to your dentist. • To protect oral tissues, apply dental wax to any sharp edge of the tooth. • You can use denture glue to temporarily reattach the crown until you get to the dentist. • Try to replace the filling if it does not fall into place easily. • Eat very hot or cold foods. • Make an appointment as soon as possible. Bleeding gums • Rinse your mouth with warm salt water. • Regularly brush and brush. • Use a tip stimulator (a cone-shaped rubber spike located on a toothbrush or handle that is useful for massaging the gums). • Stop brushing your teeth regularly. • Make an appointment for a professional cleaning and examination. Bleeding in the mouth or after tooth extraction • Pressure is applied to the area for five minutes with clean gauze. • If the bleeding continues, press a wetted tea bag to cut for five minutes. • Rinse your mouth. • Call your dentist if you cannot stop the bleeding with direct pressure. • Go to the emergency room if you cannot reach your dentist and the bleeding is significant. Mouth ulcers • Rinse with warm salt water. • Apply a piece of ice or a paste of baking soda and water to the sore for a few minutes. • Use over-the-counter anesthetics (Orajel, etc.) for temporary relief. • Put aspirin on the sore. • Use steroid creams. • Use hot packs. • If the problem does not clear up a week, contact your dentist as this may be a sign of a more serious problem. Broken dental appliances (bridges, dentures and implants) • Save all the pieces and take them to your dentist. • Cover the protruding materials with dental wax to prevent irritation of the oral tissue. • Remove dentures until you reach the dentist. • Try gluing the pieces together. • Try to bend the cover keys of the partial dentures into place. • Wrap the pieces in the fabric, which can be discarded by mistake. • Contact your dentist as soon as possible. October 2003 update do not • Use heat. • Place aspirin or other analgesics directly on the tooth or gums. • Eat very hot, cold, sweet or spicy food. • Eat hard food. • Touch or scrub the root. • Try to replace the filling if it does not fall into place easily. • Eat very hot or cold foods. • Stop brushing your teeth regularly. • Rinse the • Put aspirin on the sore. • Use steroid creams. • Use hot packs. • Try to glue the pieces together • Try to bend the cover keys of the partial dentures into place. • Wrap the pieces in the fabric, which can be discarded by mistake.
