Basketball courts are available in a variety of sizes, however some features remain the same, such as the size and height of and the distance from the basket to the free throw line. The guide is written to support those who are planning to create a basketball court in Australia, with court line signs based on fiba court size, NCAA or NBA size regulations. In Australia, the National Basketball Federation (NBL) uses FIBA rules and regulations, including total court size and court line signs such as free throws and three-point lines. Therefore, we recommend sticking to fiba court size for Australian basketball courts. Basketball court size in meters! If you are looking for court size & line markers in meters, you are in luck... Whether you're intending to build a small custom-sized backyard court or fiba-regulated 3X3 half-court all the way to an NBA-sized full court, you've come to the right place to get all the figure sizes you'll need for marking your selection line. Basketball Court Section It will help know the different areas of a court before continuing - refer to this image... Click on the image to zoom in so how big is a basketball court? The International Basketball Federation (FIBA) regulations, ordered that a full-size FIBA regulated basketball court size measures exactly 28 by 15 meters. In the National Basketball Association (NBA), the court is 28.7 by 15.2 meters. In Australia, the half-yard backyard usually starts at about 7m in height to match the free throw line (or 9m to fit the three-point line) and is 4 or 5 metres wide or more. Other common sizes include: 9m x 5m, 10m x 7m and FIBA 3x3 are 15m x 11m half yard size. Basketball Court Lines All lines must be 5cm wide and should be painted in a single transparent (usually white) color. Hoop in amateur basketball, court sizes can vary greatly. One thing that remains identical on all basketball courts is that baskets (also known as hoops) are always 3.05 m (10ft) on the floor (except in some youth competitions). Three Point Arc Regulation FIBA three-point arc is 6.75 m from the basket. Any shot taken outside the three-point loop is worth three points instead of the usual two. Distance from the three-point arc varies according to different rules: Arc Radius from Hoop Minimum distance from fiba sideline 6.75 m 0.90 m NBA 7.24 m 0.91 m Basketball court has a three-point arc at both baskets. The three-point line is not part of the three-point field target area. Free Throw Line Free Throw line is 4.6m from the backboard. This is an important measurement for backyard basketball court construction, although the main width (3.6m) is usually narrowed to fit the space without affecting the gameplay, the main height (especially the distance of the free throw line to the back) should be maintained at 4.6 meters to effectively practice regulating free throw shooting at home. Free pickup circles Area) The free semi-circular line consists of a semi-cicle with a radius of 1.25m measured from the point on the floor directly under the correct center of the basket to the inner edge of the semi-circular circle. The circle is connected to two parallel lines perpendicular to the end lines, 0.375m long and 1.20m from the inner edge of the end line.
