Andriy Blokhin/ShutterstockYou can know Costco as a pretty popular wholesaler, especially since their prices can't always beat even the big grocery chains today. But have you ever considered using Costco gas prices as well? If you're not, it may be time to consider it. Costco named No 1 Brand for Low Gas Prices In a survey collected by the Oil Price Information Service (OPIS) in March 2017, Costco was named the number one brand for the lowest price of fuels 50 brands. According to market efficiency or market share, Fuels 50 is ranked among the most efficient fuel brands. Obviously, prices vary depending on location. But after a few random searches, it's pretty clear that Costco offers a pretty sweet deal on gas (closely followed by Sam's Club). In Maple Grove, Minnesota, Costco offers regular gas for $2.35 a gallon. GasBuddy says the average price of gas in Hennepin County is $2.53. In Addison, Texas (just outside Dallas), gas prices average $2.41. Costco offers $2.29 a gallon, which doesn't even touch other gas stations that offer more than nickel more per gallon. However, it seems that every good thing has a price. This price may not cost you much money, but it will cost you time. Costco is known for long lines with a gas pump. So if you're making a trip, there may be a reason for someone to run shopping or do-it-yourself accessories while you wait your turn to fill up. When prices are discounted for needs such as gas or food, warehouse clubs like Costco get customers. By becoming a member of Costco, you are open to the world of low prices for everyday Yes, Costco gas prices and food are quite cheap, but did you know that Costco also sells home improvement and DIY equipment? That's right, it's true! True! At Costco for cheap gas and you can even pick up some supplies for do-it-yourself needs, including outdoor equipment, tools and building materials. Ask Costco members what they love about the store, and you'll probably hear more than a few mentions of very low gas prices. The promise of affordable fulfilling is one of the biggest benefits of a Costco membership, costing $60 a year. But does Costco really have the cheapest gas in America? Costco may not be the cheapest A Costco service station | Tim Boyle/Getty Images CSP magazine, a trade publication for the convenience store and gas station industry, placed the low-cost gas executives of 2018. Costco, ranked No.1 in 2017, lost the top spot. Food 4 Less, which has 25 gas stations across the country, was the cheapest gas in America. On average, a gallon of gas at its stations was 21.59 cents cheaper than at competitor stations. Costco came in second. A gallon of gas was 21.19 cents cheaper on average. But it's probably much easier for you to find Costco to fill your tank. The big box store has nearly 450 gas stations across the U.S. – hundreds more than Food 4 Less. Rounding out the top 10 cheap gas stations was Quik Stop. We Got It, ARCO, G&M Food Mart, Space Age, Fred Meyer, Rotten Robbie and Kwik Serve. How much does it cost to refuel Costco? A gallon of regular unleaded cost an average of $2.85 on April 21, according to AAA. Average prices ranged from a hawaii high of $3.79 a gallon to a low of $2.52 in Alabama. Prices tended to be higher on the west coast and lower in the southeast. Prices have risen by about 25 cents a gallon since a year ago. To get an idea of how Costco prices compare to local averages, we looked at gas prices in several major U.S. cities using Gas Buddy. In Los Angeles, the average gas price was $3.67 per gallon (as of September 21). Several Costco stores had gas for $3.25 a gallon, as was Sam's Club. Similarly priced gas was available at a handful of other stations, such as ARCO, where you don't need a membership to refuel. But at some L.A. stations, gas cost $4.49 a gallon or more. In Chicago, the average price of gas was $3.14 a gallon. Costco and Sam's Club were the cheapest places to fill a tank in the metro area, with prices ranging from $2.79 to $2.73 a gallon. In Atlanta, a gallon cost an average of $2.76. At Costco and Sam's Club, gas was $2.47, while BJ had gas at $2.48 a gallon. A couple of stations reported slightly lower prices than member clubs. Some stations in QuikTrip, Speedway and Murphy USA had gasoline at $2.52 a gallon. This is clearly not scientific research. But a quick look at gas prices seems to suggest That Costco prices are not only below average, but also tend to be one of the cheapest filling places – although it may not be the cheapest. Should you switch to Costco for gas? Man pumping gas | Joe Joe Photos So, should you start refuelling exclusively at Costco? Maybe. If you drive a lot and have Costco nearby, there is a good chance it will save you money. But you need to study gas prices in your home region and do the math to find out if the savings are worth it. In high gas taxes for cities like Chicago, Costco may not offer a huge price advantage, noted the Christian Science Monitor. In addition, there are other ways to cut your fuel costs. Grocery stores may offer gallon-specific discounts tied to their premium programs, while cash-back credit card fees can also help save. (Noteworthy: Costco's Anywhere Visa card gives you 4% back to your first $7,000-a-year gas purchases.) Also beware of gas stations that give you a discount on paying in cash instead of a credit or debit card. Finally, using an app like Gas Buddy can help you compare prices and see if Costco (or its rival Sam's Club) is really the cheapest game in town. Check out The Cheat Sheet on Facebook! Page 1 2 more gas price articles Getty If you want to buy in bulk, Costco is basically heaven on earth. But there's one small caveat: It's just a deal that pays memberships and costs $55 a year to join. While you're likely to get your money back in all the savings you get, there's actually another way to get these deals. It turns out that some other stores are willing to match Costco's prices - meaning you can skip the membership fee altogether. Here's how it works: Since you don't have a membership and therefore can't visit your local Costco to study their prices, costco.com is your best friend. It allows you to explore how much the products cost the wholesaler, and when you find the product I want, print the product page at a price and bring it to the store that contributes to the price matching. Who's taking part? Check out Best Buy for Electronics, Home Depot, and Lowe's for home improvement supplies, or buy Office Depot and Staples for office supplies. Even another large membership shop, Sam's Club, is priced for a match (which means you don't have to be part of both to make sure you get the best deal available). Kyle From Rather Be Shopping has compiled a full list of stores pricing Costco (see it here) - and the terms and conditions in force for each store. Yes, sometimes there are catches: For example, for Best Buy to accept a price match, Costco must be within 40km of the local Best Buy store. Of course, no shopping stunt will ever replace the Costco experience altogether. For example, bulk and toiletries are much harder to find elsewhere than TVs or microwaves. (Not to mention a free sample day - Costco's membership inhibition, which is funnier than we'd like to admit). But price matching is a useful tip in your back pocket when you have a specific purchase in mind.
