

I'm not robot

Continue

Bloodsport movie quotes

Columbia Pictures/Everett Collection Different genres of movies capture different moods: Sometimes you want to be scared of a horror movie, educated by a documentary or sent deliriously laughing with comedy. But when you just want to be reminded of everything that's good in the world, there's no better place to turn than the romance section on your Netflix homepage. Romantic films from rom-coms to dramas are filled with grand gestures, perfectly imperfect couples and, of course, incredibly eloquent confessions of love. Who could ever forget the short, sweet, and to the point you're complementing me from Jerry Maguire? Or the moment a certain girl stands in front of a certain boy in Notting Hill and asks him to love her? Cinematic moments like these may not actually happen that often in real life, but with the help of your favorite rom-coms, you can spend two hours in a world where they do. Read on for the 30 most romantic quotes from Hollywood history ideal for any occasion, whether you're planning a wedding (try to print them on your decorations or incorporate them into your vows!), wanting to find romance in your relationship, or simply dreaming about your happy life. You complete me. - Jerry Maguire Don't forget: I'm also just a little girl, I'm standing in front of a boy, asking him to love her. - Notting Hill I came here tonight because when you realize you want to spend the rest of your life with someone, you want the rest of your life to start as soon as possible. - When Harry met Sally so it wouldn't be easy. It's going to be really hard and we're going to have to work on this every day. But I want to do it because I want you. I want you all, forever, you and me. Every day. —The Notebook I'm afraid to leave this room and I never feel for the rest of my life the way I feel when I'm with you. - Dirty dancing We rip out so much of ourselves that we heal ourselves from things faster than we should go bankrupt by the age of 30 and have less to offer every time we start with someone new. But if you didn't feel anything so you wouldn't feel anything— what a shame! - Call me by your name for me you're perfect. - Actually love I love you. Not like they told you to love, and I didn't know it either, but love doesn't make things beautiful, it ruins everything. It breaks your heart. It makes things a mess. We're not here to make things perfect. Snowflakes are perfect. The stars are perfect. Not us, not us! We're here to destroy ourselves and break our hearts and love the wrong people and die. - Moonstruck You've bewitched me, soul and body, and I love you, I love you. I never want to be divorced from you from today. - Pride and prejudice We'll always have Paris. - Casablanca I want to tell you with my remaining strength that I love you. I always have. I'll drift past you every as a ghost just to be with you. Even if I am banished to the darkest place, my love will prevent me from being a lonely spirit. - Crouching tiger, Hidden Dragon Our love is like the wind. I can't see it, but I can feel it. - A walk to remember people fall in love. People belong to each other, because it's the only chance anyone has for true happiness. - Breakfast at Tiffany's At Best, it's a happy delusion - these two people who truly love each other and have no idea how truly pathetic it will be made. But, but, when two people know that, and they decide with their eyes wide open to face and get married, then I don't think it's conservative or delusional. I think it's radical and brave and very romantic. - Frida In my opinion, the best thing you can do is find someone who loves you just the way you are. Good mood, bad mood, ugly, nice, handsome, what have you got. - Juno What I'm trying to say, very inartfully, is that, actually, maybe in spite of appearances, I like you a lot. Just like you. - Bridget Jones's diary Medicine, law, business, engineering, these are noble pursuits and necessary for life support. But poetry, beauty, romance, love, that's what makes us stay alive. - Dead Poets Society I'd rather die tomorrow than live a hundred years without knowing you. - Pocahontas I knew that when I kissed that girl, I'd be marrying her forever. So I stopped. I stopped and waited. I waited a moment longer. Then I just got into it. - The great Gatsby The only way to beat my madness was to do something crazy myself. Thank you. I love you. I knew as soon as I met you. I'm sorry it took me so long to catch up. I just got stuck. - Silver Linings Playbook You're my air. - Brown sugar I came here without expectations, just to confess, now that I'm free to do it, that my heart, and always will be, yours. - Feeling and sensibility Let me ask you one thing. Do you think— after we've died, after spending a lot more time together—can you agree not to marry me? And do you think not being married to me might be something you might consider doing for the rest of your life? - Four weddings and a funeral I want a fairy tale. - Beautiful woman When I first saw you, I felt like I knew you, and I couldn't stop looking at my life with you and building a family together. One who's not stuck in the pain of the past. That's very nice. And so, if you're asking me if my proposal still stands, then my answer is yes. I do. A thousand times, yes. - The light between my oceans of love, I can't tell you how grateful I am for our little infinity. I wouldn't trade him for anything in the world. You gave it to me forever in the long days, and I'm grateful. - A mistake in our stars I wish I knew how to leave you. - What do you want? You want the moon? Just say a word and I'll throw a lasso around it and pull it down. Hey, that's a pretty good idea. I'll give you a month. - It's a wonderful life It was a million little things that, when you added them all, thought we should be together, and I knew it. I knew that the first time I touched her. It was like coming home, just to no home I'd ever met. I was just taking her hand to help her out of the car and I knew it. It was like magic. - Sleep deprived in Seattle I don't want to sound stupid, but remember that love brought you here. And if you believed love this far, don't panic now. Trust him to the end. — If Beale Street can talk keep up with the latest daily buzz with BuzzFeed Daily newsletter! Getty Images We can already tell now – you were the kid who had every Disney movie by heart. Right? And the night before your family went on vacation to Disney World, you couldn't sleep because of all the excitement. And you always held your favorite guy's stuffed animal tight and you never wanted to let her go... except when forced into the washing machine. But now you're an adult and you've put those Disney days behind you - and yet you feel something is missing. Maybe you're like me and recently signed up for Disney+ for the first time and you've been consumed by a tidal wave of nostalgia. You realize you still know all the words. And that you're due to travel to the Magic Kingdom. In addition, there are even more characters that you can fall in love with. And best of all, now you can share them with the children in your life. It's time to dust off that childish spirit and let your favorite characters inspire you with these best Disney quotes. Who knew so much of what they had to say was actually very good advice for how to navigate life... Even as an adult? 1 out of 20 Cinderella No matter how your heart grieves, if you continue to believe, the dream you want will come true. 2 out of 20 Pooh Every day spent with you is my favorite day. So today is my new favorite day. 3 out of 20 Merida Our destiny lives within us; You just have to be brave enough to see it. 4 out of 20 Timothy Mouse Things That Hold You Will Lift You. 5 out of 20 Snow White Remember that you are the one who can fill the world with the sun. 6 out of 20 Fairy Godmother Even miracles take a little time. 7 out of 20 Gusteau If you focus on what you left behind, you will never be able to see what lies ahead. 8 out of 20 Emperor Flower that blooms in adversity is the rarest and most beautiful of all. 9 out of 20 Mary Poppins In every job that has to be done, there is an element of entertainment. 10 out of 20 Buzz Lightyear To Infinity and beyond! 11 out of 20 Blue Fairies Always let your conscience be your guide. 12 out of 20 Olaf's Love is putting other people's needs before yours. 13 of Cheshire Cat If you don't know where you want to go, then it doesn't matter which way you go. 14 out of 20 Dory Because when I look at you, I feel it. And I look at you and I'm home. 15 out of 20 Stitch Ohana means family. Family means no one's going to fall behind. 16 out of 20 Edna Mode I never look back, darling! That's what's pulling me away from now on. 17 out of 20 Lumiere You don't have time to be timid. You must be bold and bold! 18 out of 20 Timon Moto? Nothing, what's the motto with you? 19 out of 20 Archimedes Man has always learned from the past. After all, history can not be taught in reverse! 20 out of 20 Zeus The true hero is measured not by the size of his strength, but by the power of his heart. Last updated on 18 December 2020 inherently, the experienced traveller doubles as a social butterfly. They can achieve a conversation on a whim and somehow manage to find common ground with individuals from all walks of life. Independent travel can be amazing eye-opening and enrichment, but it will also equip us with the skills needed to be successful. Communication and interper-human skills are attributes that can be learned and honed. These skills are applicable in everyday life and can be translated into professional environments. We are ourselves closedFor my first lonely travel experience, I have just arrived in San Francisco for an external. There was a problem with our train and we had to switch to a new train on the next platform. The gentleman who had a polite conversation decided that now his mission was to help me move my belongings to the next train. Though benevolent, I was appalled. I'm not used to the kindness of strangers, in fact I thought he was trying to rob me or worse. Kindness is somewhat regional. And growing up in a tristate area, I was conditioned to be extremely skeptical. Interacting with strangers seemed incredibly taboo. It's embarrassing to admit it, but social skills have fallen by the wayside. We forgot how to talk. The idea of talking to a stranger is terrifying. But even scarier, the lack of effective communication will ultimately lead to a lonely life. Keeping the passion aliveA very wise man once said that before he fully commits to someone, take them on a journey. This wise man is Bill Murray and he's telling the truth. Travel can be a very vulnerable time for many, often times it can bring out the worst in people. But if you are able to overcome the inevitable obstacles that will arise during your trip, it has been proven that travel strengthens relationships. This gives yourself and your partner the opportunity to share a common goal. Just being in a different environment, without all your daily commitments that tend to get in the way will help you recreate romance and intimacy. Wants, both chance to recreate some problems that would otherwise trigger an argument- in a safe, romantic environment. Couples who travel together regularly reported more effective communication with each other than those who did not. You will never see the world the sameThe greatest epiphany that can be experienced as they immerse themselves in the way of life of travel is the realization that not everyone thinks the way you do. Not everyone lives the same way you do. Different cultures have different philosophies and priorities. Breathe, relax, enjoy enjoying the place where results are expected right now, I did not take well on the idea of waiting. I mean, what's a setback? I ordered it, and I want it now. Obviously, impatience was smeared all over my face. The server that received my order asked me so innocently: Why do you look upset? You have a few extra moments to just enjoy life before you receive food. He was so right. Why was I upset? I had nowhere else to be. That's why I took his advice. I took a deep breath, breathing in all the beauty that surrounded me. Patience is a virtue. And when you travel, you have no choice but to be patient. Learn to roll with the punches Not everything went according to plan, things will surely go wrong. When you travel, you are extremely vulnerable to these accidents, with very little certainty if things happen not to go your way. It can be incredibly upsetting the first few times. This may even deter some of the decision to proceed. But if you can hack it and take hits as they come, you will ultimately develop the patience of the Saint. Bad things are going to happen; Let them go. You'll find another way. When things don't work out, you not only have to be patient, but adaptable as well. You need to be able to remember and strategize, or at least accept the situation and roll with it. This is not a situation - it is your reaction In a landslide of positive effects, your increase in patience and adaptability in turn will make you a kind, less skeptical person. Because at this point, you can have it. We're all human, we do our best to get away with it. So stay cool. Conflicts will arise, and the way you choose to deal with them will determine the outcome. Alternative forms of communicationEverything who is new and unknown may seem daunting. Especially when traveling abroad, especially if you are traveling alone. If you're something like me, you're enjoying a bit of an abrasive jostle of cultural shock. It's all so foreign, so incredibly different. This can make communication difficult. I literally don't speak their language. Chances are, I'm not going to get fluent overnight or anywhere in the near future. But I can still make my fight easier by learning a few key phrases in the language where I'm visiting to be in everyday life. I'm more likely not to, I'll hide the excuse. The average person will get the gist of what I'm trying to say and appreciate the effort - regardless of poor execution. Nonverbal communication will become your saving grace. You will develop the ability to convey your meaning without words. By not realizing, you can begin to reflect the behavior of those around you to establish the basis of common ground. Only in this short time, you develop. You have picked up new manners that will focus on your existing personality and habits. This experience literally becomes a part of you, changing how you think and how you behave. Featured Photo Credit: VideoHive via videohive.net videohive.net