Right now, we have more hands on access. Mike orders all the roses. Trims all the roses, cans and roots. It scatters all the roses and by May, when the calvary of a female army arrives, Brittany Hayes, Mike feeds and guides them. As well as helping all customers and organizing. Those who have been to daycare know that Mike is doing a bad job of organizing the part. By the end of the summer, Mike looks like this. By the end of the summer Mike, to quote a friend at the market, half-went crazy for spending so much time in the sun. A lot of people said Mike needed a tent around him. But people who know him personally know that he is elusive, undefined and unwavering. While summer time is the most important time of the year for us, because just when we are paid, in many respects it is also the most resusable. Look at this picture Mike took of his daughter Alice. Frank Gatto is the founder and owner of the company. He retired from Ship Yard in Bremerton and began growing roses as a hobby. The hobby grew and Frank decided to grow and sell roses at a market in Gig Harbor. He sold several hundred roses that first year and 2,000 the second year. In the fall of 1998 Frank had a decision to expand, stay the same or contract. Frank always the dreamer decided to come in. In the fall of 1998 he bought four acres of property in Rosedale. In addition, he bought 10,000 roses. The next year was a success. There have been a lot of changes since the second year, but the goal has always been the same. Grow and sell beautiful roses. Autumn SatiOpen Saturday and Sunday 10am-5:30mikes Cell 253-509-8409 Text Raft until 85100 and I will keep in update on discounts and promo Roses are REDie for your home. There's still a lot of snow. We'll reopen soon. Call ahead and we can make it happen! This crop of roses is probably the best I've ever had. I made a business decision to have fewer roses that were grown in Wasco California. Since I had devastating consequences from California suppliers this year I bought a total of only 10 varieties from them. In the past I felt I had to take what I get and make them better. They're great to start with this year. See you soon. Mike 2535098409 This week I'm going to get a lot of perennials and good color. I still have a shortage of plants for bedding, but I'm about to solve this problem. Clematis is close to flowering. We are open 10am-5:30am Every opening day 2018 is tomorrow. if you are coming long distances, make sure the roses you want are in stock. I'm still waiting for one order to arrive on Friday. I've got the most roses in stock right now. I'm very much looking forward to the new year and I expect the good things to come. Putting things together and will be ready to reopen on January 1st. We've had a good year, and may have been profitable. I'm having trouble replacing the Hayes clan, but I have some options. Call me ☞ need something or if you have questions 2535098409mike Great Times! I saw *. Plants grow well and many basil breaks on roses. It's easier to look forward than to look back when spring is coming. I had a great time with the roses in Tacoma. Lots of questions and nice interactions. I was worried I'd be too negative. I became frustrated with inferior rose farmers acting as if their roses were just as good or better. I didn't hold punches at the meeting. For years, I've taken heat for the problems created by wholesalers. I had him with those clowns. I also had it with unsolicited advice from people who have rose gardeners. I've grown over 100,000 individual rose plants. Please don't give me a sentence what you need to do is. I'll turn it around a lot. You know what you need to do is... Maybe I was irritated that my brother was in the hospital through the ER. Or that the family I know is in the middle of a very serious legal situation. Or that I had a 2 greenhouse collapse in the last snow we had. Or that the company I spent tens of thousands of dollars with won't pick up my phone call. Loyalty. Oh, good. At least I have great customers even though I didn't always deserve it. Apparently 2 of my greenhouses needed more support for the snow load@ we had great conversations with customers. Even in the rain. We're closed today. Super Bowl on Sunday. Call me or send a message if you need help. 5098409mike Opening Day!!!! It was great to see nice people. Jo and Cliff Martin, Barb and Bruce Lind, Mike and Alexa Peterson, Beth buy Sheila's perfume and Julia buys 4 Ingrid Bergman. Thank you all for coming to talk to me about roses. Not just work when people have a passion for roses. Mike got off great in the Tacoma dome talking about roses. I was warming up to Cisco Morris. I guess it's like when Alice In Chains opened for Van Halen. I'm going to tone big!📢 The new Rose List for 2017 is on the tab in the menu of this website I'll be giving a short slideshow to tacoma home and garden show on Sunday. I start at 12:00 We're going this season. In kindergarten, this time of year is dark. Literally and figuratively. I think we're on the countdown to the summer solstice. Most roses look good this year and we will have more annual and perennials than ever. I'm rearing some settings, too. We'll have a new greenhouse and a bigger presence on the road. A new list of roses has been published. We should have a larger selection of tomatoes and vegetables, but smaller quantities so shop early. As for the rose list. Some of the long timers may notice that we fewer varieties. There's a reason. One of the main reasons is that as time went on we realized that many varieties that grow OK in the garden do not grow well in the nursery. Specifically, Downey Mildew is very likely to be present in many variants. I know some of the sales reps will refute this, but I have spoken to many experts as well as hybrids who will privately say that Downey Mildew is in the plants itself. Since this is the case, it is not worth the risk of rolling the dice. We had a significant problem two years and 15 years ago. Both times they were devastating. Roses are the most profitable plant ever, but if specific varieties pose a significant threat, it is not worth the risk. Certain distributors are very prone to having problems. Therefore, we have reduced the number of providers we believe to be high risk. We also stopped carrying certain varieties all together. There were a few other issues I'd like to point out. The number of wholesale rose growers is decreasing. So we are taking a step in budding many roses that are not patented and grow well here. This will be a lengthy process and will not show benefits for several years. Many suppliers are not as customer service friendly as in the old days and unfortunately trust has become a problem. We're still buying roses from Texas, Arizona, California and Ontario, BC so we'll keep going until we build our own sylvag. And we will always buy patented nude root roses from these areas. Thank you for your interest. Mike happy to be done with Christmas trees and wreaths. I'm also done potting the roses I received. Yippe! I don't know what you did the day before Christmas Eve, but I used to pot naked roses in the snow. It's good to have a week off with your family. February 1 is the day we open. I've uploaded a new list of roses. I'm looking forward to this year and I can't wait to get her going. Most roses are in, but certain will not arrive until the first or second week of February so if you are looking for specifics contact me on 253 509 8409. The lyrics are great. I hope most of you saw my article in gig harbor life last week. I also updated my homepage. There are some pictures on it that I took this week of roses blooming in the field. A few people told me they lost their roses last year. It was hard and weak plants may have bitten the dust. I say hurrah in many respects, not because you can buy new, weak roses is not worth growing while there are so many good ones. Our policy of returning with very few exceptions is this: If you believe it's my fault, Mike, your rose has died then we will replace it or return your money. Having said that, it is very easy for an experienced rose grower like me to tell if it is a rose watered or circled scattered to get close to it. Any way you check new images I found this supplier in your favorites and do not know where I found it or who recommended it. Do you have any experience with this?
