The World Cup will be a huge commitment from the peninsula, which will require major stadium and infrastructure development and redevelopment from now until 2022. The goal has all the information you need to know about the tournament as it approaches. Content When is the 2022 World Cup? The 2022 World Cup will be the first to take place in June and July. This is due to the hot Summers of Qatar, which hit 42°C in June, July and August. As a result, the 2022 tournament will start on 21 November and will be more compressed than usual, and will finish less than a month later on 18 December. Even at that time of year it is still very warm: the average for November is 30 °C and will fall to just 25 °C in December. The switch will affect several leagues, and European football will be rescheduled to accommodate the tournament. For example, English football will not be able to play in the traditional Christmas period with many of the league's best stars in Qatar for the World Cup. The November-December tournament will also have an impact in 2023. The African Cup of Nations, which would normally have taken place next January. The end of the year was decided on weather conditions from May to September, as well as on the desire to avoid clashes with the Winter Olympics (February) and Ramadan (April). The third-place play-off will take place on December 17, and the final will be played on December 18. Kick-off timesGroup stage matches will start at 10pm, 1pm, 4pm and 7pm GMT (5am, 8am, 11am and 2pm ET). At the same time kick-off times in the final round of group games and all knockout games will be 7pm GMT and 2pm ET). The World Cup 2022 final will begin at 15:00 GMT (10am ET) and will be played at Lusail Stadium. Back to the top What stadiums will be used for the 2022 World Cup? Among the many questions asked about the 2022 tournament is how exactly 2.5 million countries, about one-sixth of Ireland's size, are going to greet the world. This will be the last world championship with 32 teams, so Qatar at least does not have to deal with the expanded field. But the country's government - a very rich monarchy - still expects to spend between $8 and $10 billion on the world championships, and this is significantly less than the originally touted budget. The initial plan was to have 12 stadiums ready to host games, but the number was reduced to eight. The venue for the show will be Lusail's iconic stadium, which will host the finale and has a maximum capacity of more than 80,000. Eight stadiums to be used: Al Bayt Stadium Al Janoub Stadium Al Rayyan Stadium Al Thumama Stadium Education City Stadium Khalifa International Stadium Lusail Stadium Ras Abu Aboud Stadium Expected to be completed in 2020. Yasser al-Mulla told reporters from the Supreme Presentation and Legacy Committee in January 2018 that all stadiums would be completed two years before the tournament began. One advantage of bringing the World Cup to such a small country, of course, is that travel time will be miniscule compared to the Brazilian and Russian tournaments. The maximum distance between the two stadiums will be about 130 kilometers, about an hour and a half drive away. Back to the top When will the 2022 World Cup draw be made? Usually, the draw of the World Cup finals takes place in early December a year before the tournament. However, due to qatar's timetable change, the 2022 finals draw will take place in April this year, about six months before the launch. Back to the top When does world cup 2022 qualification begin? The first qualifying schedule for the 2022 World Cup was the AFC section, which began in June 2019. The CAF chapter started in September 2019. Public health problems related to the global coronavirus pandemic have meant that the timetables for some cycles have been discontinued, but the qualification will be updated in August, September and October 2020. UEFA qualification will only start in 2021. Qatar will automatically be considered hosts, but they are still involved in the early stages of asian qualifying, as it also acts as a path to the Asian Cup. Whether they continue into the final round, if they progress that far, remains to be decided. Back to the top When are World Cup 2022 tickets sold? You'll be waiting a long time for these coming. World Cup finals tickets are only sold through FIFA these days and tend to less than a year before the tournament. For example, the 2018 World Cup ticketing process started in September 2017. So come back in 2021! Back to top
