I am also the one who creates all the photos, materials and models for this site. The site was launched in early 2018. I started making textures for my own products on blenderMarket only, but finally turned to this website. Commercial texture sites do not allow the redistribution of assets in their raw formats as parts of a Creative Commons project or game. CC0 Textures resolves this issue by providing assets under a Creative Commons license that allows them to be redistributed as files. New assets are published every Sunday. Some week-long releases are bigger than others, but there's always something new to discover. You can follow and tag @CC0Textures on Twitter and Instagram to give credit (optional) and be informed about new releases. You can support this project at Patreon.
