In the previous episode of Are You the One? Justin and Max were in the closet and were inseparable at the Queer Prom. Aasha admitted that she fell in love with both boys and wants to explore these possible connections. Jenna broke up with Kai, but they got back together on a date on the run, only to find out they wasn't perfect the next day. However, the news didn't stop their relationship from failing to stay away from each other. V Are you the one? Season 8, Episode 5, singles compete in the challenge and vote couple into The Truth Booth. Who goes to Getaway Date and which couples sat together for the matchup ceremony? Keep reading to find out! A fan enjoys a temporary tattoo of the MTV logo at the MTV EMA 2015 - Instant View at the MTV EMA in 2015 at mediolanum forum on October 25, 2015, in Milan, Italy. Justin and Max have fought Two lovers have spent a lot of time getting to know each other, and Max is ready to go on their honeymoon. However, Justin told his possible match that he wanted to explore another connection in the house. Aasha, who has a love for both boys, spoke to Justin outside, which ended up in a makeout session. Jasmine, Nour, and Remy were seen kissing and immediately ran inside to tell Max. Hurt and embarrassed, Max told Justin that he didn't want anything to do with him anymore. Justin later opened up to Basit about his abandonment problems caused by his father, who left him and his mother, who kicked him out when he was 14-years-old. He realized he was pushing people away and cut them off so quickly because he didn't want someone who really cares about his departure. After letting Max cool down for a few days, he admitted he used the game as a way to get close to him. Justin, however, promised not to kiss anyone else and start kissing. Nour has seen and believes they are not meant to be together. Kai and Jenna are obsessed with each other After no match was confirmed last week, Kai and Jenna are both undoubtedly obsessed with each other. Even though Jenna's trying to explore something with Danny and Kai watching Curry, they don't seem to let go. V Are you the one? Season 8, Episode 5, they are in a closet that performs boom boom rooms. They seem to be going at it so loudly that they woke up Jasmine, Aasha, and Kylie, who joined them for a five. Getaway Challenge and Date Single had to answer questions using emojis for their partner to decipher. The first two couples who solve this fastest will go to the next escape date. Jenna and Danny, Remi and Basit, Kai and Curry, and Paige and Max came to their partner's message out fairly quickly. However, Nour and Amber and Justin and Aasha didn't do so well. Jenna and Danny and Kai and Curry ended up as waverunner winners. On Getaway Date, Jenna admitted that that she was still involved in Kai's website. He told her he was chasing bad things and could offer her emotional stability. Kai and Curry's alone time didn't go so well because Curry doesn't trust Kai. She said she needs someone to cut off all her exes and knows she won't cut off what she has with Jenna. Kai asked her to give him an opportunity; However, Curry is still not sure. 'Are you the one?' Season 8 of Episode 5 of True Booth and the Matchup ceremony Because Danny and Jenna are so similar, the vast majority of the House voted them in the Truth Booth. Turns out it's not the other guy's game that crushed Danny. He told the cameras it hurt because no one ever understood him the way Jenna did from his ex. Danny opened up to Basit about his failed engagement three years ago and how he thought he would now have a wife and children. pic.twitter.com/y84hZgL3c5- #AYTO (@AREUTHE1) July 18, 2019 Danny and Basit, Kylie and Jonathan, Aasha and Remy, Curry and Kai, Jasmine and Brandon, Justin and Max, Amber and Nour and Paige and Jenna sat at the awards ceremony. The cast got only one beam, which means one perfect match. See how you made that one? Wednesday at 9 P.M EST on MTV! The producers of This Is Us hinted a while back that we'd be spending a lot of time with Jack in Vietnam this season, and tonight's gruelling episode certainly made good on that promise. Highlighting Milo Ventimiglia and set entirely in the past, Vietnam finally begins to fill in some gaps when it comes to Jack's military service, and his relationship with his brother Nicky. There has been a lot to process, so here are six key things you might have missed. This content will be imported from <embed-name>. You may be able to find the same content in a different format, or you may be able to find more information on your website. NBC's Kevin contacted a man named Mr. Robinson last week, asking for information about Jack. Tonight we met with a young Don Robinson (Mo'Nique), a soldier who served alongside Jack in Vietnam and shared a relationship with him alongside some good-natured rivalry. Once Don started talking about his post-Vietnam dreams of playing Major League Baseball, you had to know something terrible was coming and we're not sure we'll ever recover from Jack's perspective of handing Don his own severed legs.2. Wounded soldier Jack kept the season premiere wasn't Nicky When Rebecca asks Jack about the war on their first date and he downplays how awful it was by saying to her he was 'just a mechanic, we saw a quick look at the bloody Jack holding someone in his arms. Since the shot came just before Nicky mentioned it, many viewers assumed that we were seeing a glimpse of the brother's death scene. But this episode contains a full version of this moment which sees Jack cradle Don after he loses That means we have no idea how Nicky's going to die, or if Jack's going to be there with him when he does, or if he's really dead. If there's one thing we've taught us, it's a question of everything!3. It was Don who taught Jack to breathe. One of the most touching recurring motifs throughout the show was Jack teaching Randall how to breathe through his panic attacks-remembering gut-wresting scene when Randall did the same for William in his dying moments? Unsurprisingly, Jack didn't learn that technique from his own father. Instead, he learned it from Don, who (despite having just lost a limb) takes a while to calm Jack down as he prepares to be medically evacuated. You're scared, Pearson told Don Jack, asking if he's ever tired of acting like he wasn't. I've faked my whole life, admits Jack. In response, Don puts his hand on the side of Jack's face and tells him to breathe, telling him, Sometimes we are so scared that we die, we forget to do the thing that keeps us alive. Jack clearly carried it with him and a few years later taught him to his son. It was so emotional! NBC 4. Jack wasn't drafted, but he volunteered to be with Nicky. Jack had a medical exemption that meant he avoided the draft (more on that in a second), but Nicky's number came up. Jack has always been incredibly protecting his little brother-Nicky by only half-ironically referring to himself as Lois Lane on Superman Jack-so he immediately comes up with a plan to get Nicky to Canada to avoid going to war. But on the way, Nicky slips out of their motel room in the middle of the night, leaving a note explaining that he won't run away from the draft. It's my turn to save the day, he writes. But Nicky still needs a rescue, at least as far as Jack is involved. The letter comes from Nicky suggesting he's not doing well in Vietnam-he's been disciplined, and he writes disturbing phrases like I know I'm not getting out of this place alive-so Jack has to go and find him. I just have to be where he is, even if I can't get to him, he tells his doctor. Even if there's nothing I can do for him, I have to be there. He's my little brother. It's my job to take care of him. 5. Jack had a long history of heart problems before his sudden death. As we all know, painfully well now, it wasn't the house fire that directly killed Jack, but a heart attack caused by smoke inhalation. And as it turned out, there were warning signs. Jack has had tachycardia (abnormally fast heartbeat) since his childhood, and it was severe enough to free him from the draft. Jack downplays the condition as harmless when he decides to enlist, but his doctor is clearly concerned. 6. Jack's father wasn't always a monster. NBC It was pleasant surprise, because Stanley Pearson was quite a one-note villain for most of the show. On the one hand, this episode offered much more painful details about how abusive He was to his wife and children, so it's clear that his violence is a big part of why Jack is so protecting Nicky. There's also a brutal scene in which Marilyn, Jack and Nicky's mom, greet the postman with a very visible bruise over her eye. He wasn't always like that, Marilyn told her sons after they both intervened to physically protect her from Stanley. And it's true: In returning to the day Nicky was born, Stanley is sweet and supportive, offering his father's advice to Jack in the waiting room. The appearance of Stanley's own father, the bank in hand, hints at some of his demons - yet you must wonder what happened on earth over the next two decades to turn him into such a terrible man.
