Zombie exodus mindy romance

Here's my updated release schedule (estimates, not official) -
Zombie Exodus: Safe Haven, Part 3, Winter, 2020 (280,000 words written so far, tests on Patreon)
- Vampire: the Masquerade - Out for Blood, February 2021 (225,000 words written so far)
It's been a while, but how long does it take to romance Mindy in the game? I thought it happened early enough, but maybe my memory is bad. You can start early enough from what I remember correctly. Heck, if you make the right decisions, you may already be in a romance with her by the time she and your PC go to Temperance in Part 3. You can Mindy romance in Part 4, but first you have to select the I have feelings that go beyond friendship option in Part 3
Zombie Exodus' gt;
General Discussions Of the Ends (Spoiler obviously) is there a specific one that looks a lot like that?
Ok I need help, I'm looking for a happy ending. However: Mindy and the MC need to be together and not oh she ran away or oh she was captured ...
». I don't care that much for others, so theres definitely place for a bittersweet ending, Mindy is a great character and I need closure. Laughing out loud. Is there such an end? (I persevere on others ... obviously ;)
) Help. This game is crazy good and, speaking like another writer; I need closure!
Last change and realizing that you are a zombie, the events at the cathedral were just hallucinations, and you are experienced by scientists. Asskicking Equals Authority: Successfully take the reins and lead the survivors through a bandit attack and a horde of zombies leads the group to dub the new leader. Badass Bookworm: If the scientific background is chosen. Badass Preacher: If the priest background is chosen. Comforting The Widower: If you romance Tom. Despite the short time the death of his wife and him look for you for a relationship, he is not portrayed negatively. Cool Big Sis: A female player character to Emma can be that, depending on the choices are made throughout the game. Democracy in Disaster: Elected leader after rallying the survivors through an attack by bandits and The elites are more glamorous: The PC Soldier used to be special forces before they left the service. Party Girl hard-drinking: or Guy. Not as much as Emma, but the reason the PC is still in the apartment when the epidemic occurs is because they had a hangover. Heart: With a good stat charisma, the PC can be a beautiful reassuring figure who supports everyone and listens to their problems. The leader: Finally promoted to this after the bandit and zombie attack on the cathedral. Mercy Kill: Can eventually kill Dave and Emma to prevent them from turning into zombies. My Sister Is Off-Limits!: The other survivors usually assume that the protagonist will feel this way about Crone being with Emma, so they try to get around the subject of their budding romance. The PC can play this straight line or subvert it. Promotion to Parent: Although only two years older than Emma, the protagonist becomes more of a parent to her than the aunt who took them in. Scientific hero: If the scientific background is chosen. Sleeping through the Apocalypse: By the time the protagonist wakes up, the military and police have instituted a curfew, put sentinels to prevent people from leaving their homes, and the zombies have almost overtaken Emma's building. Took a level in Badass: If a background other than Soldier is chosen. Emma! The younger sister of the protagonist. She worked as a nurse in a children's hospital before the outbreak. Ill Girl: She becomes thinner and sicker and starts taking Risperdal in Part III. Doctor: She was a nurse in a children's hospital before the epidemic, so she serves mainly like this in the cathedral. Mood-Swinger: In Part IV. It can go from being shiny and pleasant flat and without emotion to the drop of a hat. When the player goes to temperance to get medication, Emma gives them a list of the drugs that every person in the cathedral needs. If itself is listed as the need for Risperdal, a drug that is used to, among other things, treat bipolar disorder. Sanity Slippage: Due to both the stress of staying alive and being haunted by Cassie. HeatherEmma's best friend and Tom's little sister. She was a feature film writer for a television news station prior to the outbreak. Big Brother Worship: For Tom, especially since he practically raised it. She even admits that the pain of her father's death doesn't really compare to what she felt when Tom moved away from temperance to live in the city. Hates Being Alone: What starts the romance is Heather walking into your room to cuddle, because of this trope. Jerkass: His attitude annoys and irritates The other survivors. [Jerk with a Heart of Gold: That said, she really cares about them], and is no less affectionate to the PC than any other love interest should they start a relationship with her. Killed for real: It is possible for her to die in the cathedral cathedral at the end of Part IV. Single Woman Seeks Good Man: Interestingly, she likes PCs that are nice and sweet, rather than those that are just as grumpy as she is. What beautiful eyes: Woman? To check. Sexy? To check. Capricious? To check. Have the large bright green eyes pointed out more than once as one of its most striking features? To check. DevlinA mysterious survivor that the protagonist, Emma, and Heather meet while trying to escape the city. Fear of needles: He hates them and will act as a disruptor, petulant child when the scientific PC draws a sample of his blood. Danger takes a hand a handle: He does this to the protagonist when they meet for the first time, but he was involuntary - it happened that he was sleeping on the back door of the car that the protagonist was trying to move. Hidden depths: He looks and speaks like a thug and clearly knows how to use a gun. This led some fans to speculate that he was a criminal before the epidemic. He was actually a lawyer. The immune: He was bitten shortly after Tom refused him entry on the escape boat, but never turned into a zombie. Its immune status can help a scientific PC create a vaccine against the virus. Jerkass: He doesn't make the best case for himself while traveling with the band in Part II, which makes Heather's ire in particular. His dislike actually fucks him out of way on the escape boat. Killed for real: When you find that he has been bitten, you can immediately shoot him. Mysterious Past: He is very reluctant to talk about his life before the epidemic, and will only tell the protagonist if you have a decent relationship score with him. We Will Meet Again: He says, 'You haven't seen the last of me! when he is dropped in Part II. TomHeather's older brother and co-owner of the cathedral. He lost his wife Emily when the epidemic occurred. The Alcoholic: He descends into this pretty quickly after the group arrives at the cathedral. It shows signs of layoff of the sauce in Part IV, however, and seems determined to give it up entirely in Part V. Chains of Command: The isolation and pressure of being the leader of the group finally arrives at him, and he gives up, letting Mindy take over. Bad hidden agenda: It is strongly implied from the moment the group arrives at the cathedral that it is up to something shady, but its motives are completely unknown. Hypocrite: When the survivors argue over whether to accept Devlin and Eugene into the cathedral, Tom shames the dissidents for letting them stay. No one mentions that it was he who denied Devlin's entry into the escape boat when started. He mocks Mindy for not being a capable leader, but gets angry if you point out that she only took over because he folded under pressure and basically abandoned the position. Killed for real: River can eventually kill Tom in Part V, or you can even kill him yourself to cut the Promotion to Parent: It's not as obvious in the story, but as Heather tells you about her life growing up, she notes that her parents were very little involved in their parenting, so Tom took most of the slack. Anger Throwing: Keep coffee cups away from him when he is angry. Uriah Gambit: Carl tells the protagonist that Tom sent the protagonist on the most dangerous missions because he felt threatened and wanted them to be gone. The protagonist can confront her on her if they wish, but so far there is no real evidence of this accusation apart from Tom's suspicious behavior. But then we move on to Part V. What is hell, hero?: He shames dissident survivors by accepting Devlin and Eugene into the cathedral. JavierA construction worker Carl hired to work on the cathedral. He is one of the sentries on the escape boat that the protagonist, Emma, and Heather advise. Gun Nut: Javier and Carl collected weapons before the epidemic, which is why the survivors of the cathedral are so well armed. Hidden Depths: If the protagonist is going to snoop around in his room, they see that he is quite the talented artist, drawing sketches and a portrait of a woman on his wall with charcoal. Killed for real: Killed when he turned into a zombie. Self-surgery: At one point, Jason catches him alone in the infirmary with a scalpel and other medical supplies. It is implied that he was preparing to cut off his infected wound. Wild Card: Emma explicitly refers to him as such when discussing the military depot mission with the protagonist, citing his recklessness and unreliability on the ground. Zombie Infectee: He was bitten during the mission of the Military Depot. Uncle LouA good friend of Carl. He owned a food truck and worked near the biology room of a university. One of his clients, a teacher who worked there, warned him of the Zeta virus. When Carl offered him a place at the cathedral, he called Jason and gave him an invitation to live there too. He lost his family when the epidemic occurred. He is one of the sentries on the escape boat that the protagonist, Emma, and Heather advise. Killed for real: Unfortunately, he is one of the few survivors whose death cannot be avoided in part V. MindyCandace's best friend. She owned and operated a paintball class before hatching. Deadpan Snarker: Not as much as Heather, but he's here. Candace: I can't believe no one else helped us. Mindy: Yes, not all the dead have lifted a finger. Heroic BSOD: During a medical mission to Temperance, she suffers from it after exploring an abandoned animal shelter. If her approval is low, she can take the PC to task to bring Kelly and Crone to the cathedral without consulting the other survivors first, even though she did exactly the same with Devlin and Eugene. We can call it there. I know Mortal Kombat: If asked how she handles firearms so well, she will say that played a lot of video games. Base surname: She always calls the protagonist by their last name. When asked why, she shrugs and says she hates their first name. She'll end up calling them by first name if romanced though. Military Brat: His father trained marines. Rescue Introduction: You can meet Candace and Mindy in the apartment building if you stop to help them fight the zombie tie in part V. CandaceCarl's girlfriend and Mindy's best friend. She worked as a bartender in a restaurant before she met Carl. The bartender: Or was she before the epidemic. Horrible character judgment: None of his potential love interests are winning, really. She even called herself on this subject after the explosion of the Love Triangle. Killed for real: It is possible for her to die in the attack on the cathedral at the end of Part IV. It has not been preventable for some time due to a bug. Rescue Introduction: You can meet Candace and Mindy in the apartment building if you stop to help them fight the zombie tie they run from. Anger Throwing: When she hears about the struggle between Carl and Jason, she completely demolishes her room. CarlCo-owner of the cathedral and boyfriend of Candace. Crazy Jealous Guy: After candidiously moved with him into the cathedral, he began to suffocate him. He wanted her to be by her side at all times, or to stay in their room if that was not possible. He began to resent any interaction she had with the other survivors of the cathedral and from on her help the scientific PC. Candace: I'd be perfectly happy with Carl if he let me be. It didn't protect me that much. Didn't lock me up with the feeling if I talk to some people or do something he doesn't like he'll punish me for it. Dude in distress: The PC is sent to save him before they even meet him. Dogged Nice Guy: He met Candace while he was renovating part of the restaurant where she worked and started visiting her every day at every break he had. Candace admits that she wouldn't normally date a guy like him, but she ended up breaking down and went on a date with him. Gun Nut: Carl and Javier collected weapons before the epidemic, which is why the survivors of the cathedral are so well armed. Crazy: He's good with throwing knives. Good enough to fit one in the neck of the PC if necessary. Beadown without bars: Gives one to Jason after he taunts Carl on the bed with Candace. Carl can kill him if no one intervenes. Rescue introduction: As soon as the group arrives at the cathedral in Part III, they are told that Carl is on a supply run and did not return. A rescue mission is immediately organized. Screw This, I'm Outta Here!: He decides to part with the band and leave on his own when he is locked up for attacking Jason. If the protagonist doesn't help her escape, Heather does. JasonAn IT Tech who lives in the same apartment building as Emma. Emma, also a hacker who managed to learn more about the Zeta virus a week before the news. He is Uncle Lou's friend, so when the epidemic occurred, he was offered a place at the cathedral. He stays in touch with other survivors outside the cathedral on the computer via a system he helped establish called Survivor Net, or SurvNet. Killed for real: Possible if no one holds Carl to beat him. Playful Hacker: He is part of an online group called LEGIT that claims to eradicate corporate and government secrets in order to publish them for the benefit of the masses. Just don't actually call him a pirate - he considers it derogatory. Screw This, I'm Outta Here!: It leaves the cathedral in Part V due to people not taking Zombie Exodus seriously. Harasser with a crush: For a girl he loved named Julianne. He sussed information about her online to stack the odds in her favor and made their manager miss his flight so he could be alone with her on a company trip. In fact, it seemed to work for him until she was apparently killed or returned during the epidemic. So he keeps his finger cut off to remember her. The zombie spin-off Exodus: Safe Haven reveals that Julianne is not dead at all. She severed her finger to prevent an infection from spreading and did not contact Jason because she thinks his obsessive behavior with the women he loves will get him killed. Too Dumb to Live: Narrating the man you were cheating on didn't end well for you, did it Jason? Tragic memory: A very rude, scary - the finger of his dead girlfriend. He keeps it in his room. DaveA Carl construction worker hired to work on the cathedral before the epidemic. He participated in Carl's rescue mission from Thompson Farm. Eaten Alive: If it is not accidentally shot by the PC, it happens instead. RiverA survivor traveling with his wife in search of shelter. The two approach the Protagonist and ask to be taken to the cathedral. Killed for real: you can kill him and Starr when you meet them for the first time. If you send them back, you'll find them dead later in the woods. Half-truth: When she and River show up at the cathedral looking to join the group, they both say she is a doctor. If she is taken care of, however, she ends up revealing that she is a chiropractor. Killed for real: you Kill her and River when you meet them for the first time. If you send them back, you'll find them dead later in the woods. There is also his inevitable death during the battle of the cathedral at the end of Part IV. We hardly knew you: His inevitable death occurs in the same part as it is introduced in. EugeneThe owner of a pharmacy in Temperance who takes Devlin in exchange of supplies with the survivors of the cathedral. Cool Old Guy: In his second appearance, he saves you with a confetti cannon. Killed for real: If you find out that Devlin is bitten and decide to shoot him, you have the opportunity to kill Eugene as well. He dies for natural causes in most purposes. God's Mission: Begins to believe that the survivors of the cathedral are on this in part V. CroneA former member of Colin's camp who tried to leave and was imprisoned for it. Base surname: His name is Ted, but everyone calls him Crone. Secret character: You must find him and free him from Colin's camp to bring him to the cathedral. KellyA former member of Colin's camp who tried to leave and was imprisoned for it. Engine mouth: Great time. You have the chance to talk to him about it after hearing the complaints of many other residents of the cathedral. Screw This, I'm Outta Here!: If morale is low enough during the zombie attack on the cathedral in Part V, she will try to steal a bag of supplies and run. Secret character: You must find her and free her from Colin's camp to bring her to the cathedral. CassieA mysterious little girl who appears to the protagonist on occasion. She also seems to share a connection with Emma. Guardian entity: She serves this for Emma, but she sometimes helps the protagonist and other survivors as well. It doesn't seem capable of harming anyone, but it can distract zombies, spot the surroundings for resources and enemies, and provide advice. Not-So-Imaginary Friend: The protagonist remembers Emma talking to a friend that no one else could see as a child. TobyA dog that the protagonist and Heather find while hunting. Cool Pet: He can possibly kill a bandit in Part IV. Heroes Love Dogs: If supported. Everyone in the cathedral likes it. Heroic Dog: It can help protect survivors and shoot down zombies. Secret character: You have to go hunting for food with Heather to find him and bring him back to the cathedral. BadgerA raider who took part in an attack on the cathedral. Approval rating of 0%: None of the other survivors trust him or want him in the cathedral and will be very unhappy if you let him stay. Ranger of the 11th hour: He joins the cathedral in Part V, the last installment. I did what I had to do: his perspective on the raid and the theft of other survivors. I owe you my life: To the protagonist if you leave the bandits inside the cathedral to help against the horde of zombies to come. When the fight is over, he cites this as the reason he wants to stay. Screw This, I'm Outta Here!: If Approval is too weak and as you put it in the wrong place when the zombie attack on the cathedral in Part V, it will abandon the survivors of the cathedral and leave alone. Only survivor: Bandits attacking the cathedral on supplies. ColinThe leader of a bandit camp not far from Cathedral. Even evil has loved ones: Despite being a bandit leader, he loves his daughter Hadley. From person to nightmare: From a counsellor and a family man who helped rehabilitate troubled people to a ruthless and manipulative bandit leader. Badass handicapped: The leader of the bandits is actually in a wheelchair. The leader: Bandits from the Summer Friends Camp. It seems to be a mixture between Types I and Type II. HadleyColin's daughter. Fangirl: She's a basketball fan, and if the PC athlete sneaks into her house, she recognizes them and is quite starstruck. Stepford Smiler: Try not to let the PC worry about his infection by acting as optimistic as possible. Richard LaurentThe only survivor on the ship that the PC meets in the fuel mission.
