As is so often the case, the outside may raise some doubts, however the food is excellent. Stayed in the area for a week, and returned a second evening as we had so much enjoyed the food the first evening. The beef fillet over the roquet... with slices of parmesan and balsamic sauce was exquisite, as was the pen a la russe. If you prefer your meat a little more cooked than extremely rare, be sure to highlight it. The portions are plentiful and the prices are incredibly low - great if you're on a tight budget. I'm sure we'll be back if we're in the area. More territory. More
