25 June 2020, 14:34 | Updated: June 25, 2020, 14:36 Khloe Kardashian has made a number of iconic transformations throughout her time in the public eye. Photo: PA/Instagram Khloe Kardashian has had a big makeover throughout her career from being a KUWTK star to her TV show Revenge Body, but what did she look like before fame? Did you have plastic surgery? Khloe Kardashian has always been one of my favorites in keeping up with The Kardashians and her hell of a transformation over the years! The reality TV star, who now has a daughter called True with NBA player Tristan Thompson, has experimented with many hair colors and styles over the years and even dedicated himself to becoming a gym bunny. Is the DASH store still there? Kim, Khloe and Kourtney Kardashian fans wonder what happened to their clothing store through out their careers, we've seen 35 years show her looking different, but what did she look like before? Did you have plastic surgery? What did Khloe Kardashian look like before fame? Khloe Kardashian first appeared in KUWTK in 2007. Photo: When KUWTK first aired in 2007, Kardashian's youngest sister was known for being a funny, candid sister, and was much taller than her sisters Kim and Kourtney. Looking was different from her sisters, her family had even joked about being 'adopted' and went so far as to do a DNA test on the show to prove that she was actually Kris Jenner and Robert Kardashian's daughter. The star first came on the scene with dark brown locks before going on to feel umber sports as her look in 2014. A Later, she came through her blonde hair that has now been signed and began to fit, following her divorce from basketball player Lamar Odom. Khloe became very dedicated and even began to show her daily workouts on Snapchat and Instagram, where she was giving fans some serious motivation! In 2015, she also filmed an incredibly steamy with Complex where she appeared on the Cover of August/September with her new look and showed her toned abdominal muscles. Photo: PA the following year, she did a similar shoot with the shape and explained how proud she was of her body 'because she got it', revealing she lost 35 pounds. Kardashian's sister became pregnant with her daughter in 2017 and was still pushing for a healthy lifestyle, allowing her to get back after giving birth. In 2018, it launched its own program called Revenge Body on E!, the same channel that hosted KUWTK, where it gives a fan a one-type shift, leading to a big turnaround from the inside and out. The show was a great success and went on for three seasons. Khloe Kardashian is Being a gym lover Photo: Instagram Has Khloe Kardashian undergone a facelift? Khloe Kardashian shocked fans with a selfie where she looked different. Photo: Instagram has sparked controversy recently on social media after posting an almost unrecognizable selfie on Instagram, prompting people to comment on her new face. The photo sparked much speculation about whether the star had undergone plastic surgery, and Chloe even sarcastically responded to a fan who wondered why she was so different, saying it was a weekly face transplant, clearly. She only acknowledged that the temporary fillers were made in 2016, but revealed that she was not a fan of it, saying: I looked crazy, and I still think the effects are there. I went to solve it three times. My face was so f**ked. Chloe also rekindled the rumors of the surgery after sharing a shot with Tru, where her face looked different from what fans used to. Khloe Kardashian is allegedly not losing sleep due to surgery rumors. Photo: Instagram however, according to US Weekly, a source said earlier this month that it was not a relief from comments and speculation. They said Chloe doesn't care about the violent reactions she gets from fans, saying she doesn't look like herself in her last photos. She thinks she looks great, and actually doesn't care what people think as long as she's happy. Fans are still fighting whether her nose and other facial features look different now because of surgery, editing apps or even just some serious contour, but apart from being always an absolute queen!&#x2013; grab our app for the latest Kardashian news and gossip we know the Kardashian-Jenner clan makes over lighting, camera angles, filters, and retouching and contouring to enhance the endless stream of images it releases to the world. But we also know – from studying the beauty transformations of Kim Kardashian, Kylie Jenner and Kendall Jenner over the years – that they don't oppose a little cosmetic work as well. That's why I'm opening the case to Khloe Kardashian, who looks so different lately (not to say I'm keeping up with Kardashian, but they're everywhere.) I'm not the only one who's noticed, and the 33-year-old has described her self-identifiable and obsessed with plastic surgery, and she's allegedly spent more than $3 million to achieve her new look. Let's see how it's changed over the last decade... Khloé in 2007 Khloé Kardashian at the First Princess Party in 2007. The first season of Keeping Up With The Kardashians debuted in late 2007, so at the time of this photo, at the age of 23, Khloe was on the cusp of fame. She's been very nice i think she's already injecting lips at this time (she's a family of early adopters), but that's it, and the rest of her features fit her face. Her natural hair. Crispy and light brown, but they all had Kim's look at the time: the darkness and super-long and straight god fainted. Khloé in 2008 Khloé Kardashian at the 2008 Kira Blastina Launch Party. The following year, Chloe got some layers of facial framing and softened her accent to a softer brown color. I like it! We still see Kim's effect with long lashes and swollen-looking lips. However, compared to the look later, this is practically no makeup makeup. Ha! Khloe Kardashian at the 2008 premiere of 'Bunny House.' later that year, was back to a deeper brunette, paired with a deeper skin tone (spray tan). Her blush looks muddy -- an early repetition of contour, perhaps? If I look at her lips, they've emptied a little, confirming my previous doubts about padding. She's got amazing teeth! Khloe in 2009 Khloe Kardashian in 2009 married White Party. Khloé in 2009, so it makes sense that she was at the top of her beauty game. This look seems to mimic the style of her older sister. I actually love the straight, middle part hair, which really lengthens her face (and the color is more flattering than before). Dark eyeliner is well balanced by its glossy transparent lips and natural skin tone. Khloé at 2010 Khloé Kardashian at the 2010 Beach Bunny Fashion Show. As Kardashian's fame grew, make-up became heavier and heavier. It's an opposite phenomenon happening with actresses! In case (Chloe) may have to hide the escape I didn't get acne until I was in my 20s, which is bad and I was very insecure. I have admitted. My sisters have had the most beautiful skin all their lives, like not even pores. On top of the heavy foundation, she even called contour (well, orange patches), adding false lashes outside the spider and signing the family's nude gloss goopy. Khloé in 2011 Khloé Kardashian in the 2011 Hollywood Style Awards. In this pic, Khloé (now 27) made a complete departure from her previous look, with red lips, pale skin and brand new Umbri a post. It's a lot more modern and polished compared to the last pic. Her nose also looks slimmer... Is she not smiling here or because of something more permanent? Khloé in 2012 Khloé Kardashian in 2012 InStyle Soiree Summer. Then, it was back to the color of chocolate in 2012. As you've noticed now, Chloe tends to hold on to these soft waves with the middle part. I almost describe makeup as fresh for Kardashian, that is. Now that she's smiling again. I don't think she's done anything with her nose... Go away. Khloé at the 2013 Khloé Kardashian at the 2013 Hypnotiq Harmonie event. Things remained largely the same until 2013, except for a splash of blonde plyge and a slick of orange lipstick. (I love oranges on them!) Her eyebrows have been looking on the thin and angular side in the last few pictures, but now they are on their way to their glorious state in 2007. Khloé in Kardashian at the 2014 Elton John Academy Awards. This brings us to Chloe's favorite moment. She went full Hollywood glam for this Oscars party, and she's absolutely gorgeous on her! The deep side part and vampy oxblood lipsticks bring a new twist to their appearance. I also love the color of lighter brown hair, which is probably very close to its natural hue. Despite the exciting vibe, there is nothing heavy about makeup — even soft false lashes. How un-kardashian her! Khloe Kardashian at the 2014 American Music Awards, but here it begins to give me a pause. The lighting on this red carpet is unusually flattering, and yes, there is some strategy sequelgoing. But even still - Chloe's nose seems to have changed his shape. Another modification is ombré high contrast, which I'm sure we'll all look back with WTF? great in a few years. This was also the beginning of Instagram make-up, with heavier contours, sagging lips and exaggerated eyebrows. Khloé's 2015 Khloé Kardashian in 2015 nbc makeover Universal Upfront. Khloé got more radical in 2015 - she was 31 here - starting with blond hair. I actually don't mind this shade on her, because she's a sandy blonde. I also love what you do with this blue eyeliner! By this time, she had begun to lose a great deal of weight, which is narrowing the shape of her face. Could that be why there seems to be new stuffing in her cheeks? Khloe Kardashian's strong signature looks better naked in 2015. Nothing can have prepared me for this shot... It's actually scary! To launch 'Strong Looks Better Naked,' (a book about nothing, according to Gisebel), Chloe really stepped on the injections. Her lips look heavily swollen, and her cheeks have taken on that wooden look she's often hung on with Rosie Huntington-Whiteley, but to face it, maybe she was disheartened at Botox by this time also not that there's anything wrong with it all... But usually, the point is to look better. Well, at least she knew she had an idiot in it. She said in an episode of Kocktails with Khloé. It didn't work for me. I looked crazy, and I still think the effects are in there - I went to have it all solved like three times. Khloé in 2016 Khloé Kardashian in 2016 'Kocktails with Khloé' Winter TCA Tour. Ahh... This is a bit more like life! However, we can still see the lingering effects of injectable fillers and bototics in her lips, cheeks and forehead. There's also her new button-like nose adding to the overall synthetic effect is a brighter blonde... Although I love the length of the loop. Khloe Kardashian at oak nightclub 1 in 2016. Hold. This from a few months later, either the stuffing didn't melt very well, or it came back up. Either way, it's the nearest Khloé has come to resemble a wax figure! Her lips are From the stuffing and cheeks look inflated and implanted in all the wrong places. Dark spray tan, heavy foundation and over-the-top lashes really don't help. Khloe Kardashian in 2017 NBC Universal Upfront. Guysly, Khloe had a more natural look in her latest appearance on the red carpet. With the help of extensions, long, sleek hair made back, along with the beloved Umbri. The padding seems to have stabilized, but still exists a lot. And yet, her nose is suddenly wider again (more on it in a second!). We really have to go to Instagram now to understand the full extent of this transformation... Yes, they cannot be officially identified. I would like to identify this as an Instagram model, not a member of america's most famous family. Her lips doubled (triple?) in size, her eyes look blue... But her nose is again wider here, not slimmer. And another one from Instagram. Who is this, right? Part of it is weight loss, but there's also something little Michael Jackson nestin his face. Just me? Khloé Kardashian's finale in 2007 (left) and in 2015 (right). Chloe's beauty development is one of the most dramatic developments we've seen, and it's undoubtedly inspired by the desire to get rid of her identity as the ugly duckling of the family. Compared to my sisters it was something I used to, she told people. But compared to this cruel way I just thought, 'Well, that's my turn. I'm the funny fat sister. I almost let that take ownership of me. But with a new love of fitness, she may now shed 40 pounds and reinvent herself completely. These plastic surgeons aren't so sure it stopped at this point: they seem to have softened her nose, possibly from rhinoplasty, says Dr. Anthony Youn. Her lips look plump, most likely with injectable fillers like juvederm. Her forehead and eyebrows also look comfortable, possibly from potox injections. Chloe also got some dermal fillers such as voluma or juvederm on her cheeks to give herself an elevator and press on her cheekbones. Khloé also went under chin enlargement. She had a very round and large chin and now she has a long and narrow chin. Her lips look much more humvees and fuller, most likely hyaluronic acid, says Dr. Susan Evans. Her nose also looks straighter, and may have been surgically achieved with calcium hydroxypatite, filler to lift the nasal bridge. The overall shape of her face has changed, from round to more oval, says Dr. Robert Tornambe. I think it was a microliposuction of the face, especially around the jaw and upwards, along with the filler of the middle of the face to sculpt the face. She also appears to have had a nose job, which has thinned her nose to mix her face with a more oval face. Well, I doubted a lot with potox and padding (including the temporary bridge, which explains why the width of her nose changes). But the chin. Liposuction? Anything is possible! Of course, she has the right to do so. As she told Cosmopolitan, I think people should get plastic surgery, fillers, lasers or anything if they want to - that should be your personal decision. I agree. But when will celebrities learn that saying nothing is the best policy?! Just three days before that scary 2015 photo, Chloe wrote a blog entitled My Face Free of Fellay.. (She called us bitches!) Months later, she finally admitted that she had done a job. Her makeup artist, Joyce Bonelli, has also claimed her mad contour skills gave Khloé the best nose job for eight years. Personally, I don't think for a second that just makeup and padding! Are you? How do you feel about Chloe's beauty development? Which of these views is your favorite? What beauty do you think she's done? Do?
