Therefore, it is strongly recommended to respond to them. I've been playing this game since the beta phase. And I still play it because they always release new characters and events. I love building teams in rally and blitz. It's always a top meta game/meta team, but I find a lot of fun using my entire roster in Blitz, Raid and Wars! I'm free to play and can be one of the few grateful for all the whales and other pay-to-play players. This means that I can play this game for free. Am I a few steps behind them, yes. But I'm cool with it, they spent a lot of money because they can't wait. I do all my daily achievements and play in events and know what base point I need for good rewards in the blitz so honestly I'm in great shape. If you want to be free to play and are not able to plan and manage resources. This game is not for you. But most of my guild mates are F2P like me and looove this game. The only complaint I have is red star promotions, which seem arbitrary. I've seen some reviews crying river about money, mistakes, or devs not caring. A bunch of crybabies that are eligible. Developers have been working and listening to the community since I started making so many good changes. I have no problem with the end of the money side of things, and the mistakes get sorted out. Love marvel comics, love this game that presents them so well. Developers: Don't listen to all these bad reviews. You did, and you are keeping a great game with a lot of potential. Most of them complain about not being good at the game because they don't spend time working out the math about what makes a team good. That says it; they make legitimate complaints about the strategy of paying bills. Most of your players are Marvel fans, not able to play game fans, so it's easier to maintain a player base than other games like yours. You may be able to add a feature that will allow players to view ads instead of spending money on currency, equipment, and character shards. In this way, you can remove some pressure from the direct purchase of dependencies, allowing you to give more for less, without affecting the bottom line. We (your players) are willing to make money and be loyal customers, but most of us don't have enough to justify spending any amount of money on ftp. Even those who do can't afford what the question is. It seems that a small couple pay arm and leg on all s to play. Not fair. Maybe, give you a monthly subscription option that gives you more attractive option. Give hem all while forcing them to level up like everyone else or something. SOMETHING BESIDES DIRECT PURCHASE INCOME PLEASE. Thank you for your time. Take care. Well, my characters are at a maximum of 70 and I've completed hero and villain campaigns and made little progress in mystical and cosmic campaigns before I ran into a dead end, there's no way my 70s characters can go, I'm on the 5-9 Nexus, and Ulustim just killed every character I had with me before I destroyed the operator I was supposed to protect. I can't level any longer out there and I don't have access to the right shards to power my people further than I already do because these shards are at levels that I don't have and apparently I will never be able to unlock because my 70th level defenders along with either the Punisher or sometimes Captain Marvel are apparently a joke because they get demolished at every level that I have tried to pass consistently now for several months. Basically I'm in catch 22. I can't get powerful anymore without reaching the later levels of the game and I can't get to the later levels of the game because apparently I'm not strong enough (synergy doesn't even seem to make the slightest difference even tho I have all the defenders and punisher characters and each character has at least 4-8 synergy bonuses. So that's said, I think I'm ready until ra she cap level in this game to over a hundred, so it was fun guys. See you in about 5 years if this app is still around. This game was incredibly fun and completely addictive and tempted to spend money on deals, probably more than a wallet really allowed fore. But they just implemented a new fix for the gameplay, in which the camera zooms in on every movement of the character at a speed of 3x. This in turn causes the camera to jump on the screen at high speed and causing traffic sockness quite quickly, making the game almost unplayable. This xoom highlight character skill and CGI attack was originally only during normal speed gameplay, but now it is at all speeds. Not only does it cause nausea and motion sickness, but now it's also extremely difficult to keep track of what's really going on with the progress of the battle or change to another priority. You can't play at normal speed while playing arena, raid or war mode because you only have 5 minutes to complete a matchup or timeout, so you're forced to play at 3x, but this new system has destroyed it. They took an amazing game and literally ruined it, trying to improve something that wasn't broken and was already running beyond well. I spent a lot of money on offers and will continue, but now I can't play or enjoy the game anymore. A way to ruin a good devs thing. At least us an option in tuen settings that ridicule off. I mean, that would be just sensible things to do. You have given us the opportunity to disable alliance invitations... good bye fun time waster. Because of this game there is always a super buggy, and since the last update that keeps me using WIFI. I will have to give it (1 Star). I've been playing this game for almost a year now. I'm almost at the maximum level with almost the entire list of characters unlocked. So yes, I liked it. Could it be fun? Absolutely can be, and super addictive too. But developers are lazy and greedy. Also, the lack of customer service is frustrating and disappointing because they often ignore most of the problems. This game will mess up character development with serious delay problems that will cause the game to do things you may not want. And resources are very limited unless you decide to pay an inflated salary to win bids. Even if you decide to pay for things. Watch out as this game seems to bait you to use resources without wanting to. When there is a sale, the rates of decline become non-existent. So if you do not mind the use of all the data due to bugs that are in the game, which (do not allow the use of WiFi) in the application hungry data. This game may be for you. If you don't mind losing valuable resources due to buggy issues that haven't been solved and then play, it's a lot of fun. If you like to shop in the app that have no value. Then at all costs you will not have any problems. As long as this game becomes stable, and has the game breaking fixed bugs. I'll give him the 5 stars he deserves. Sad to say that you must get 1 star. Developed by FoxNext Games, LLC.
