Ariel the holistic vocal coach dead

Former X Factor star Ariel Burdett has died aged 38. The sad news spread to her close friends, who paid tribute to Ariel after it was announced that she had passed away earlier this month. In one group, a friend shared: 'It's with great sadness that I post this as I just found out. One member of the property, Amy Burdett, known as Arabella Starchild, crossed into the IceLands earlier this month. Who is Ariel Burdett and what is the cause of her death? Ariel - real name Amy - was a holistic vocal coach and aspiring singer. Although she hasn't gone through the X Factor audition stage, her appearance on the show has become legendary among viewers - and is still one of the most beloved moments in the show's history thanks to her candid attitude. In the 11 years since her appearance on the show, she has been renamed Arabella Starchild. By 2016, she was still singing, uploading original songs to her YouTube channel. Her cause of death has not been confirmed, although she was reported to have died at her home in Leed on November 12. An investigation will be held later this month. When was Ariel on The X Factor? Ariel appeared on the show in 2008, auditioning judges Simon Cowell, Cheryl, Dannii Minogue and Louis Walsh - with her audition quickly becoming legendary among viewers. She made her mark from a distance, initially going to the audition room and taking away her label, saying it was a person, not a number, before telling the panel: 'I'm not a specialist, I'm a generalist. Ariel then performs a quirky original number that shows a few different vocal styles and which leaves the judges stunned, with Simon Cowell saying 'It's a complete and complete nightmare. The idea behind it is that you understand that every line is different, Ariel explained, but Simon told her: 'I don't care. Meanwhile, Cheryl told her she found her scary one, adding: 'The way she approached me, I thought we were going to have scrap. However, Ariel pushed back, telling them that the song she had performed was something to be understood by the academic university, adding: 'You're obviously not academic. Before she left, she added: 'Well, I'll say goodbye... But not before I advised you to put some metal right you are *e. She called the singer stupid as she was escorted out of the room by security. Ariel Burdett, whose real name is Amy, was found dead at her home in Leeds on November 12. In 1999, she was credited with one of the show's most memorable auditions when she appeared before judges Simon Cowell, Cheryl, Louis Walsh and Dannii Minogue in 2008. She ripped off her label when she walked into the room and told the judges she was a human being, not a number. The pre-bequest hearing was told Ms Bourdet's landlord's staff went to her home in Leeds on November 4 after concerns were raised about her welfare. Ms Burdett did not respond and did not respond to attempts to contact her and officers returned to the house eight days later with a locksmith, Wakefield Court heard. After they entered the property, they found Mrs Burdett. Pathologist Dr Lisa Barker issued a preliminary cause of death as a neck wound. Friends of The X Factor 2008 left heartbroken on social media and claimed she struggled before her death. There were no family members at the brief hearing today and police told the coroner there were no suspicious circumstances surrounding Ms Burdett's death. Standing on her ground: Ariel appeared on The X Factor in 2008, where she described herself as a holistic vocal coach, Jonathan Llach relaxed until a later date had not yet been set. Ariel's death was announced by a friend on her Facebook page. On November 12, police were called to an address in the Leeds area where a dead woman was found. Speaking to Sun Online, Andrew Smalling, 35, who knew Amy from the Chetiv pub in Wodehouse, Lydes, said: 'We were shocked when we heard she had died. For a while, he fought demons. Andrew added that he thought Ariel wished she hadn't auditioned for The X Factor in 2008, explaining: 'I think she regrets appearing on The X Factor because she's actually a good musician and he struck her up.
