Dune hd remote control classic slim

Do the following steps: Read the Quick Start Guide document that corresponds to your dune player model. The Quick Start Guide document contains, in particular, information about all connectors/ports and other player elements. Remove the transparent protective film from the player's front panel to ensure the player's good looks. Make sure that rc has the batteries installed. Connect the player to the TV and other A/V devices in an appropriate manner. Use a digital A/V output connection to get the best possible quality for video and audio. Be sure to turn off the player and all relevant A/V devices before connecting. Make sure that your TV and other A/V devices are configured to use the correct inputs. Turn on the player. The player performs his initial loading procedure, which can take up to 30 seconds. During the charging procedure, the DUNE logo must be marked on the TV. If you do not see the DUNE logo on the TV when the player is switched on, this may mean some problem with the player and the TV, or that the wrong video input is selected on the TV or A/V receiver/switch. In this case, check the cables and the settings for the TV or the A/V receiver/switch, or try using different cables or another way to connect the player to the TV. If you see the DUNE logo on the TV when the player is turned on, but then the image disappears and no other image is displayed for at least 10 seconds, this may mean that the player has the wrong video output mode configured. In this case, press the MODE RC button, and then press one of the RC buttons 1, 2, 3, 4, or 5 to switch to another video output mode (see Quick Video Output Mode setup). To select the language of the player menu, use the Setup / General / Interface language setting. See here updated versions of player firmware (which can improve player performance and expand player options): firmware. 4.7 out of 5 stars, 35Reviews #3.827 in Remote Controls is completed by the manufacturer of the Genuine Lune HD remote control (slim).
