Set up your device. We'll send you a link to verify that your Severe Weather Warning Extreme weather events are expected to cause Verizon service outages in your area. &Fios Internet; Business If you lose power, your Fios and Business Internet services will be affected until power is restored. Please contact your local power company to report a power outage. How do I make an Emergency Call after the Battery Backup Unit is Turned Off? You must keep the battery active in the Battery Backup Unit (BBU) for it to work. The BBU will die about an hour before the battery is completely drained. If you need to make an emergency phone call after the BBU is turned off, press the Battery Emergency Usage button on the ONT. This will allow the ONT to reboot and provide up to an hour of talk time. After you press the Battery Emergency Usage button, the BBU will operate until the battery is completely drained. What is Beep, Beep, Noise Beep? When the battery in the Battery Backup Unit (BBU) needs to be changed, the ONT will start beeping or chirping – this is just a warning telling you that the battery will soon lose power. Once commercial power is restored, the battery must recharge itself and the beep must stop. If the beep continues after power is restored, the battery may need to be replaced. For customers who want to stop beeping from their BBU before replacing the battery, press the Turn off Alarm button (available on some models) that turns off the alarm. How to Replace Battery in Battery Backup Unit? Your Battery Backup Unit (BBU) provides power for Voice services for up to 6 hours if the battery is actively inserted into the unit. Click here to learn more about replacing your battery or ordering a new battery. Click here to see video instructions on replacing your battery. You only need to replace the battery if the battery goes off when: You have not experienced interference in commercial power Your commercial power is interrupted, but it has restored Things to Try After Commercial Power Restored Fios Customers. Once commercial power is restored after a blackout, sometimes, simply reorganization of your Optical Network Terminal (ONT) is required to restore Fios service. Reset your ONT now. Business Internet (DSL) subscribers. Rebooting your modem can restore services. If your power is restored and your Fios or Business Internet service is still not working, please visit the Verizon.com/repair to report a outage, check status, request a new repair, or update an existing online repair. Standard Telephone Service To check status, troubleshoot, or enter an issue ticket, please contact Verizon 1.800.837.4966.
