String together a bunch of origami flowers in a garland of paper as a beautiful decoration for any party. Make a paper bouquet for a particular one. This is particularly good if it is for someone who may be allergic to flowers. Unlike live flowers, a bouquet of paper will last forever. You origami Would like to start with color on both sides. If you use origami paper that is only colored on one side, you will see the white side when you make this origami lily. Will see. It is recommended to use paper which is at least 15 x 15 centimeters to start with, so you have a lot of paper for folding. After feeling comfortable with the folds and design, you can go on small paper if you want. Once you've mastered this origami lily, you can try to make more paper flowers, such as an easy origami tulip flower or traditional origami camelia. When grouped together, origami flowers look very beautiful as a bouquet. You can all use one color paper and make a variety of flowers, or use multiple color papers for different flowers. 1 piece 15x15 centimeters to start colored paper, get your paper ready and sit in a clear workspace with plenty of room and light to make you your origami masterpiece. Don't discourage if it takes more than one to try to get it right. Keep practicing and follow the steps. You will get it. Select your paper color and get ready to fold: start by folding your paper halfway, top to bottom and then from left to right. Flip the paper to the other side. Fold the paper diagonally halfway both ways and then reveal it perfectly. Flip the paper back to the other side and rotate. Bring the left and right corners to the middle, then fall down from the top. This result is called origami square base. Rotate the paper Kawaii Origami Square base so that the open end is at the top. Now imagine that the paper is sliced into thirds so that there will be three equal slices. Bend the right edge to the left. Bend the left edge to the right. If the result doesn't look like a photo, it's not perfect. Just reveal and adjust until it is almost identical. If it is not correct, don't worry. The real flowers are not quite perfect either. The paper unfolds the kawaii paper. Bend the right edge to the crease you have just created. Reveal. Open the right edge of the paper, and reverse the crease that you just created. Now flatten the paper. Repeat the same process on the left. The paper Kawaii folds paper like a kite as indicated in the photo. Unfold the paper. Open a little flap. Squash the two edges of that flap inward. Flatten it completely. Fold the paper to the right behind itself, so it looks like a photo. Repeat this step on the other three sides to make flower petals. Carefully open the flower. Use chopsticks or pencils very delicately to curl the petals. Remember that you are handling the paper, so do it very carefully. Now you should have a beautiful origami flower. Don't forget that Origami takes practice, so don't be surprised if your first attempt isn't perfect. Try again and you are likely the second attempt is better. Once you have successfully created an origami lily flower, you are ready to make more beautiful origami decorations such as origami roses or even an origami butterfly. Paper Kawaii
