A ringtone is the sound the phone makes when there is an incoming call. Ringtones are available in many different sounds. Although your phone comes with some ringtones, you can download multiple ringtones directly from your mobile phone provider or from one of the many websites that offer ringtones [source: Beck]. This requires your phone to be connected to the Internet via a wireless connection. There are different types of ringtones, including: Music Tones The phone will play part of a melody every time it rings. Voice tones You hear a recorded voice when there is an incoming call. Sound tones You can hear sound effects when your phone rings [source: ATT]. Here's how to get ringtones offered by two of the most popular cell phone providers. Verizon Tap the Get It Now arrow, which also acts as the right navigation game on your handset. The Get It Now browser opens. Scroll down the list using the navigation game until you see Get Tunes & Tones.Press OK. Select 1. Download ringtones and press OK. Select 1. Download new app and press OK. Select True Tones and press OK. You are now connected to a list of available ringtones. Select VZW Tones Deluxe to download the tones to your phone [source: Verizon]. AT&T Go to the AT&T AppCenter Home Screen and select Ringtones, Ringtones, Games, Applications.Choose Ringtones.Filter to select the ringtone you want to download. Select Get It and enter the information you want to be prompted for. Select Buy to download that ringtone to your phone [source: ATT]. If you would like to buy ringtones from an online store, simply visit the online store and follow the instructions there. By Chelsea Baldwin Use different ringtones helping your express your personality or identify who is calling you without having to pick up your phone. Lots of companies are willing to sell a variety of ringtones at a price, but it's possible to get free ringtones on your Virgin Mobile phone in a variety of ways without paying an extra monthly fee to Virgin Mobile for free web browsing and downloads on your phone. Select a website that offers free ringtone downloads (see Resources). These sites don't make any money from ringtones downloaded, but do make money from the flashy ads and banners displayed in their side bars and across the top of your page. These sites are safe as long as you live on one site and do not enter any personal information or sign any virtual contracts. Search for and select the ringtone you want to put on your Virgin Mobile phone. You can search for song title, music genre, or sound type. Choose how you want to receive your ringtone on your phone. If you have unlimited text and pix messaging via Virgin Mobile, you can send it directly to your mobile phone in a text message for free. You may need to may not choose Virgin Mobile Mobile wireless operator to send it to your phone via sms. If the site offers really free downloads, you don't have to worry about reading through a terms of service or clicking I accept to something before sending the ringtone to your phone or downloading it. If you don't have unlimited text, or you're uncomfortable entering your mobile phone number, download it to your computer via direct download or by sending it to your email address as an attachment. computer via a USB cable. If Virgin Mobile didn't give you one when you bought your phone, you can buy one that fits your Virgin Mobile store or buy one online. Open the file on your computer and click and drag it to your phone's data storage area. Wait for the download to end and safely eject it from the USB drive. By David Weedmark Using song editing capability in iTunes, you can transform any song into a personalized ringtone for your iPhone. All you have to do is create a copy of your favorite track and then adjust it a bit to make it a ringtone your iPhone can use. Ringtones must be 30 seconds or less, so you'll have to choose which part of the song you want to use. Start iTunes. If prompted, sign in with the same Apple ID and password you use for your iPhone. Drag a music file to the iTunes Music library, or press Ctrl-O to import it. Find the song in your music library or playlist. Right-click the file name and select Get Information. In the window that opens, click the Options tab. Click the check boxes next to the song's start time and stop time, and change the times so that the song is 30 seconds or shorter. To start the song a minute in, change the start time to 1:00 and Stop time to 1:30. Click OK. Right-click the song again. This time, select Create AAC version to create a copy of your song in AAC format. If you don't see this option, change your iTunes settings (see next step). A 30-second duplicate of the song appears in the music library below the original. If you don't have the option to create an AAC version of a song, press Ctrl-B to display the iTunes menu bar. Then choose Options from the Edit menu and click the Import Options button on the General tab. Click the Import using using menu and select AAC tags. Click OK twice to close the Settings windows. Right-click the original song file — the file that still shows full time length — and select Get Information Again. Highlight and delete the start time and stop time date, and then click OK. This returns the original song file to the normal length. Open Windows Control Panel, choose Appearance and Customization, and then click Folder Options. Click the View tab, and then remove in the check box next to Hide file extensions for known file types. You should be able to see the song file file to make it a ringtone file. Right-click the 30-second AAC version of your song on iTunes, and choose Open in Windows Explorer. In Windows Explorer, right-click the file and choose Rename. Highlight the .mp3 extension and replace it with the .m4r extension used for ringtones. Press Enter. Click the menu button in the upper-left corner of iTunes, which says Music and selects Toner. The new ringtone appears on this page, indicating that you changed the extension correctly. your iPhone to your computer using the USB cable. Select your iPhone when it appears in the upper-right corner of the iTunes window. Click the Toner tab, and then click the Sync Tones button. When synchronization is complete, click Apply and Then Sync, close iTunes and disconnect the USB cable. Start Settings from the iPhone's home screen. Scroll down and press Sounds. Scroll down again and tap Ringtone. You can now select the custom ringtone from the list of available options. Stay away from the latest daily buzz with the BuzzFeed Daily newsletter! This weekend, at a nightclub in Harvard Square, Belle Linda Halpern will sing her favorite choice from several popular musicals, including Pirate Jenny from The Threepenny Opera and Something's Coming from West Side Story. Right now, she's helping me with a presentation — and I'm the one who breaks out in song. Halpern, co-founder of Cambridge-based Ariel Group, Inc., is an accomplished cabaret singer who still performs at least once a month. The rest of the time, she trains businesspeople on how to present more effectively by communicating more emotionally. We follow your train by ourselves, and we admire you for your logic. But of our desire to connect to you as a person, we have to see how you feel about things. I turned to Halpern for advice on a talk I was going to deliver to 80 people. It was, I realized, a well-structured presentation - so well structured that my audience could plan exactly when to fall asleep. Introduction. Point one. Point two. Conclusion. Send NoDoz. I thought I needed professional help. After listening to me, Halpern agreed. First she said I needed more animation. Instead of using logic to make transitions (Now that you understand my first point, let me move on to my second.) I need to use expressive hand gestures and add emotional colors to my face. I'm not suggesting that you be flamboyant. Halpern advised, but we have to see how you feel about things. So we tried an exercise. Halpern assigned me a topic (my neighborhood) and asked me to start talking. Every 10 seconds she cried out a different feeling - love, hate, humility, happiness - as I made an expressive transition. (I love the people and sense of history in my neighborhood. I hate when I learn about a crime on my Time and again, Halpern pressed me to communicate with tools other than my voice. If I was deaf - or in the back row - I should know from your body language what you're talking about, she explained. In fact, my voice was the next big challenge. Describing my voice as monotonous assumes that it has a tone in the first place. So it was time for another exercise, this one involving Shakespeare. Halpern asked me to recite a four-line passage from The Tempest, adopting a different vote for each line. Don't be afraid (Ethel Merman shouts across the street); Isle is full of sounds (the loud narrator from Seinfeld whispers in the ear). Sounds and sweet airs (James Earl Jones yawning). It gives joy and evil does not (Kenneth Branagh play a king). The idea, she explained, is to stretch your voice the same way you stretch an elastic band. It snaps back, but it's more flexible than before you stretched it. The biggest problem, however, was my reluctance to pause - a common presentation error. I'll make a point and then rush into the examples without letting the point sink in. I know that breaks feel like gigantic amounts of time when you're up there, Halpern sympathizes, but for the audience, a few seconds break is generous. It says: I think it's important enough to give you a moment to take it in. When I can't stand the silence, she added, I should take a few steps around the stage or take a drink of water. No matter what I do, the goal is the same: Just stop talking. We completed our crash course by revising my original presentation. Who would have thought it could be so engaging? Introduction. Pause. Timid face. Loud voice. Point one. Pause. Tense hands. Strong voice. Point two. Pause. Finale. Applause.Siskel and Ebert, where are you? Contact Belle Linda Halpern on arielgroup@aol.com . .
