If you are a teacher CLICK HERE to download a free Middle School resource to help get kids reading. James Patterson's top tips for getting your kids – even the most reluctant ones – reading! * Find books your kids love. Talk to your child about their interests. Children read more if they read what they wanted. E-reader, paperbacks, hard-covering, comic books are all good. Reading is the goal! * Get a Library card for your child's name. Visit your library... the resources they have in the summer are usually terrific. And the Children's Librarian usually bend over back to help your child find fun stuff to read. * Buddy Read together. Model reading with your child. Read the same books together, and talk about them. * Create a Reading Club with friends. It's always more fun if you can share your experience. * Reward progress. Start goals with your child and follow their achievements. Give them a few prizes for progress. * Travel with your books wherever you go. Take them to the beach, in a car, on weekends and to the pool. Make a number between moments. Put books everywhere your kids might be bored and want to turn on the TV like a breakfast table, bedside table where. * Remember: it's up to you to have fun. Reading is fun! If not, keep it until they find the books they can't put down. Then reward yourself, mom, and dad, because you have just given your child the best gift you could ever have imagined: a reading gift for life.
