

I'm not robot

Continue

Hp smart app fur windows 7

If you're using a Windows PC, you may have discovered a wide range of apps to improve your experience and improve your computer's performance. But because there are so many categories and apps available, you find it hard to find the best apps for your specific needs. To help you choose, we've compiled a list of the best Windows apps for each type of user, whether you want better productivity or need to be entertained. ProductivityDuolingoScreenshotSing to refresh your language skills? Need a little help for a language lesson? Are you planning to go abroad? This free app can be just what you need to prepare. It's an app for language learning with tons of gamification, along with numerous rewards and achievements for a variety of quizzes. The app's ultra-casual nature means you can use it for minutes and still learn something, so why not give it a try? Microsoft StoreDropboxNot everyone needs or doesn't use OneDrive, especially given the oft-related cost. If your business or school prefers Dropbox as the cloud storage solution of your choice, there's an app for that. With this slick piece of software you can view your photos or videos using a grid, or as a list when dealing with documents. The free-to-use Basic plan gives you 2GB of free storage.$0 from DropboxMicrosoft To DoIf you don't have an app for planning, creating lists, and collaborating, Microsoft To Do is a great option for you. With the app you increase your productivity and reduce your stress level. It comes with a targeted My Day view, which has a personalized daily planner with suggested tasks. Other cool features include syncing tasks between Outlook email and To Do.Microsoft StoreSkype for WindowsSkype remains one of the most popular chat clients for long-distance communication, and it's another example of an app that integrates very well with Windows 10. Chances are, if you're already using a video chat service at home or at work, you know exactly what to download. But if you haven't done a lot of video chatting in the past and want to explore this kind of communication with friends and family, Skype is a great place to start and you should give this app a chance. A version of Skype is already integrated with Windows, but with the official desktop app you can also share images, sign up for translation and share your screen for troubleshooting purposes. With the Microsoft StoreMicrosoft Sticky NotesThis app lets you create digital sticky notes as reminders and then place them on your desktop screen. Of course, the latest version also comes with a few new tools, including the ability to fix your stickies on your Home screen, take notes with the Surface Pen, and connect notes to sites or documents for more information. You even sync your Sticky Notes on your Windows devices and view them on the StoreCreationFresh PaintScreenshotFresh Paint was popular on Windows 8, but it's even better on Windows 10. With the painting application you choose from a variety of palettes and activity packages to color designs or work from the ground up, whether you upload your own art and apply filters or paint in the style of your choice. The software can't exactly take the place of something like Photoshop - and it shouldn't - but it's a fun and very useful program in itself. Microsoft StoreOpen Live WriterPrefer a more desktop-oriented program for sculpting your latest blog post or web page? Open Live Writer is designed to do just that. Inside, create text, photo, or video messages, and then publish them to your site whenever you want. The app also works with WordPress, TypePad, Blogger and other website builders. It even has a simple interface for tagging and planning, so you may end up saving some extra time in the long run. Microsoft StoreFusedDo you want more interesting effects for your photos than the usual apps offer? Before you upload to Instagram, take a look at Fused, which is designed to blend photos into a background and foreground to create different effects. Going in all the ways this can be used would take a long time, but, suffice it to say, it can make your photos look great with the right work. If you want to create your own backgrounds, or just get a kick out of posting impressive photos, check out what Melt has to offer. Microsoft StoreAdobe Photoshop ExpressWhile you may have to pay to access Adobe's full suite, a free version of Photoshop is available for Windows 10. The aptly titled Express gives you limited access to Photoshop's photo editing tools, allowing for a lot of custom-made work. It is a very useful tool if you are familiar with Photoshop and want to work on some images but don't need access or want to access the full feature of the application set. Keep in mind that you'll need an Adobe ID sign-in to make this app work. Microsoft StoreEntertainmentVLC Media PlayerscreenshotFor many users, VLC is an old standby that handles almost every popular video format you throw. The media player can play virtually any video file ripped from a common source, including disks and network streaming protocols. If you use a lot of media on your computer, it's a great addition to your arsenal.$0 from VideoLAN OrganizationNetflix your computer functions more like an entertainment box than an entertainment box for productivity, we recommend downloading the Netflix app so you can quickly open it directly from your desktop. And Netflix syncs across devices - for example, if you're going to watch something on your computer, you can end up on your Xbox One - these apps are even more versatile. Of course, if you're not a Netflix fan, then there are official apps for Hulu and other services like StorePandoraEveryone has its favorite music service, so feel free to replace whichever app you prefer here. Pandora has really stepped up with a strong app for both desktop and mobile devices, one that makes it easy to stream your favorite songs. The app also has compatibility with Xbox One and is generally more convenient for Windows than Spotify.Microsoft StoreXboxThat Microsoft is working on as much Xbox and Windows game play as possible, this app comes with a number of unique features, such as the ability to stream games or movies from an Xbox One to your PC. The app also comes with social and sharing features, which means you can quickly share game clips or join clubs. It's already built into your Windows 10 PC, and there's no need for an additional download. Social mediaInstagramscreenshotsProbably don't need a reminder to download social apps like Facebook, but we still mention Instagram's Windows app, which offers much more functionality than a web page. The app isn't always updated by Facebook, but it does provide basic access to most Instagram features on the iOS or Android versions of the app. That includes access to Instagram Stories and the Instagram feed, as well as posts and search. It's a nice desktop companion. Microsoft StoreWhatsAppIf you or your friends use WhatsApp, you deserve this clean desktop version that makes it easy to run multiple detailed chats at the same time. The app also provides full synchronization, so you can record conversations on any other device when you need to, without having to worry about not updating the call properly. Microsoft StoreNews and feedsFlipboardscreenshotFlipboard is a news aggregator designed for tile-based exploration and reading, making it perfect for Windows 10. You use it to build a personalized magazine, either from certain sources or general topics, which ensures the perfect mix of specificity. After you create your magazine, sign up again to see the latest news. This saves you time and lets you manage your news sources in detail if you want. Microsoft StoreMicrosoft NewsStaying is critical, and you use Windows 10's Microsoft News app to stay up to date with all the news you need. Once you have it in, customize it so that your favorite sites and publications alert you. In addition, the team ensures that you get stories that are accurate and exciting. No matter what happens, choose your stories and sources that suit your desires, from politics to sports to entertainment news. You even configure notifications for the latest news and sync your preferences on the web and the apps on iOS and Android. The app works in countries and collects content from more than 3,000 publications. Microsoft StoreSecurityDashlanescreenshotDashlane remains one of the most popular password managers, thanks to easy installation process and user-friendly design. While the app is a little invasive - it really wants to know all your passwords. After all - it is also one of the best ways to collect passwords and protect them from a variety of sources. In addition, it is optimized for Windows 10.Microsoft StoreEditor's note: The 12 best stocks to buy for a whole new year of returns in 2021 was previously published December 4. It has since been updated with the most relevant information available.] Back in July, I recommended buying seven of the best stocks for 2021 and beyond. As a group, they've done very well over the last three months. For example, Livongo Health was acquired by Teladoc Health (NYSE: TDOC) on October 30 for $11.33 per share in cash and 0.592 times shares in Teladoc. But looking for a bit of a twist on my stock selection process, I decided that this list will be based on the first letter of all 12 months. That means my stock pick for January will be a company name starting with J, then an F for February and so on. InvestorPlace - Stock Market News, Stock Advice & Trading Tips 7 Undervalued stocks that may rise in 2021 All 12 will also have a market capitalization of $2 billion or more and positive free cash flow for the trailing 12 months. By this time next year, I am confident that my choices, overall, will not disappoint. So, without further ado, here are my 12 best stocks for a brand new year: Johnson & Johnson (NYSE: JNJ) Fidelity National Information Services (NYSE:FIS) McDonald's (NYSE:MCD) Adobe (NASDAQ:ADBE) MercadoLibre (NASDAQ: MELI) Johnson Controls (NYSE: JCI) Jeld-Wen Holding (NYSE: JELD) Apple (NYSE: JCI) Jeld-Wen Holding (NYSE:JELD) Apple (NYSE: JELD) Apple (NYSE: JCI) Jeld-Wen Holding (NYSE:JELD) Apple (NYSE: NASDAQ:AAPL) SVB Financial (NASDAQ:SIVB) Otis Worldwide (NYSE:OTIS) NextEra Energy (NYSE:NO) Dollar General (NYSE:DG Stocks to Buy: Johnson & Johnson (JNJ) Source: Alexander Tolstyk/Shutterstock.com Johnson & Johnson represents the month of January on my list of best stocks to buy for 2021. At the moment it has a sideways year in the markets. The total return of YTD on an annual basis (YTD) is only 2.6%. Based on a backlog of 12 months of free cash flow (FCF) of $18.3 billion and a current enterprise value (EV) of more than $399 billion, JNJ's FCF return is a reasonable 4.7%. It might not have wide territory - I consider anything above 8% to be cheap - but it's pretty darn good. As InvestorPlace colleague Faisal Humayun said recently, JNJ stock has an excellent product offering. From a business perspective, the company offers exposure to consumer health segments, pharmaceuticals and medical devices, Humayun wrote. The growth of the company's pharmaceutical segment for the third quarter of 2020 was impressive with most therapeutic areas delivering strong figures. Not to mention, JNJ is still very much in the Covid-19 vaccine race. This suggests that 2021 will be a year for this Dividend Aristocrat. Fidelity National Information Services (FIS) Source: Maryna Pleshkun/Shutterstock.com Next on my list of the best stocks to buy is Fidelity National Information Services, which is feb. This payment processor has had an underwhelming year relative to the US markets as a whole. It's just a fraction lower than this time last year. Based on a haunting 12-month free cash flow of $2.57 billion and an enterprise value of $109.75 billion, though, Fidelity National FCF's return is very decent at 3.8%. You won't find much comment from InvestorPlace contributors on this stock, despite the fact that it has a role to play in the technology side of financial services. 7 Growth Stocks You Don't Want to Sleep On However, on November 19, the Florida-based company announced that it earned the top spot for the sixth consecutive year in a ranking of 100 leading providers of risk and compliance technology. In addition, while Covid-19 has slowed the rate at which FIS can process transactions, it has still managed to generate organic revenue growth during the third quarter from 1% to approximately $3.2 billion. The company also increased adjusted net profit by 18% to $887 million. So, this is not a glamorous stock, but the services are definitely in demand. McDonald's (MCD) Source: CHALERMPPHON SRISANG/Shutterstock.com To represent March for the coming year, I have picked the golden arches of MCD stock. Like many of the names on this list, McDonald's has had a good year going, up about 7% from YTD. That's better than many of her restaurant peers, but it's behind the U.S. markets as a whole. Thanks to Covid-19 shutdowns, McDonald's trailing 12-month free cash flow is not nearly as strong as it usually is, now at $4.25 billion. Currently, the market leader has an FCF return of 2.7% based on an enterprise value of approximately $205 billion. Despite operating in one of the hardest-hit industries, McDonald's has gone beyond the new coronavirus, continually finding ways to transform its business without disrupting its core customer. For example, the company recently gave Beyond Meat (NASDAQ:BYND) the cold shoulder by announcing that it would test a line of meatless alternatives in 2021, including the McPlant burger. Interestingly - despite the development of the vegetable burger with the input of Beyond Meat - the fast-food company decided to go its own way. The decision to go on its own was the result of two reasons. First, MCD didn't want to alienate its meat-loving customers. Second, it is not a fan of rental licensees and other brands in her home. Meat would certainly have taken some shine off of the Golden Arches. McDonald's has had a hard time, but it always bounces back. That makes it one of the best stocks to buy for the coming year. Adobe Adobe Source: r.classen / Shutterstock.com Adobe, the mastermind behind the PDF and more, is my choice for the month of April. It is having an excellent year in the markets at the moment, with a YTD total return of over 47%. That's significantly better than both the software peers and the U.S. markets as a whole, making it one of the best stocks to buy now. Adobe's 12-month free cash flow is $4.9 billion, while the company's value is nearly $232 billion for an FCF return of 2.1%. Both company value and EV EBITDA have increased sharply over the past five years. 8 Energy shares to buy in a changing sector In 2016, the company had an enterprise value of $48 billion and EV EBITDA of 26.1. Currently, the stock has an EV-EBITDA multiple of 48.3. In early February, I said adbe shares would hit all but at least $400 in 2020. It did and then some. Moving forward, I think it's all but sure to hit maybe $600 in 2021. MercadoLibre (MELI) Source: rafapress/Shutterstock.com MercadoLibre is sometimes referred to as the Amazon (NASDAQ: AMZN) of Latin America, although it looks more like Alibaba (NYSE: BABA). For my list of the best stocks to buy in 2021, it represents the month of May. Currently, MELI stock is having a fantastic year in the markets with a YTD total return of almost 200%. Like Adobe, MercadoLibre is by far the better than both its internet retail peers and the U.S. markets as a whole. This company trailing 12-month free cash flow is $810 million, while the company's value is nearly $76 billion for an FCF return of 1.1%. While that may seem low, MercadoLibre's free cash flow has never been higher. The income is also on fire and growing like weeds. True to the Amazon equation, this name will also likely see exponential growth in free cash flow in the coming years. I've been a fan of the company since as far back as 2013, when it was trading around $120. I argued at the time that it had a dominant position in Latin America e-commerce and that its shares would benefit from it. As I write this, stocks are priced around $1,700 and moving higher in 2021. Johnson Controls (JCI) Source: Shutterstock There aren't many big companies with a J as the first letter in their name. There are even fewer with strong free cash flow. Nevertheless, Johnson Controls represents the month of June on my list of the best stock buy. Interestingly, while it only generally matches the YTD performance of U.S. markets as a whole, JCI stock is doing better in 2020 than it has in some time. Over the past five years, it has provided an annualised total return for shareholders of approximately well below the markets. However, up nearly 14% in the past three months, the company appears to be gathering speed heading into 2021. At the beginning of November, Johnson Controls was also fourth quarter results, which were excellent despite the challenging business environment. In fiscal year 2020, it had revenue of $22.3 billion and a net profit of $1.69 billion, flat up a year earlier. 7 Biotech Stocks buy Beyond Covid Vaccine Plays That's not bad for a company that produces, installs and services products designed for offices, industrial properties and other forms of commercial real estate - all of which were hurt by the pandemic. Johnson Controls' backlog of 12-month free cash flow is nearly $1.8 billion, while the company's value is about $39 billion for an FCF return of 5.3%. I see JCI as a good stock for risk-a-half investors who also like a bit of dividend income - the dividend yield is currently 2.28%. Jeld-Wen Holding (JELD) Source: IgorGolovniov/Shutterstock.com By far the smallest of the 12 names on this list, JELD stock has a market capitalization of $2.42 billion. This maker of windows and doors represents the month of July on my best stocks buy list. At the end of January 2017, Jeld-Wen went public for $23 per share. Now, though - if you bought shares in the IPO and are still holding - you've earned almost no money on your investment. Year-to-date, it has made a total return well below the booming returns of its construction products and equipment industry peer group. These stocks have mainly benefited from Covid-19. The company's 12-month free cash flow is $250 million, while the company's value is $3.8 billion for an FCF return of 11.3%. However, on November 3, the company reported third-quarter results that were better than analyst expectations. On the top line, revenue was $1.11 billion, $2 million higher than the consensus estimate. On the bottom line, it had adjusted earnings per share of 52 cents, eight cents higher than analysts' expectations. The consumer's focus on their homes, coupled with our strategy to deliver profitable market share with key customers, is to stimulate increased demand for products in both residential new construction and repair and remodeling channels, said President and CEO Gary Michel. As the focus continues on homes in 2021, I expect Jeld-Wen to break out of his funk and do well. Apple (AAPL) Source: WeDesing/Shutterstock.com For August, the famous maker of the iPhone is the next pick from this list. However, if there was a month to start with the letter B, I would recommend Berkshire Hathaway (NYSE: BRK. A, NYSE: BRK. B) because it's a much better value play and happens to own nearly 965 million shares of AAPL stock. Apple's YTD total return is over 66%, which sounds rather common, considering almost 30% annualized total return over the past 15 years. I'd take it any day of the week. As for free cash flow and enterprise value, they are nearly $73.4 billion and $2.1 trillion, respectively. That is an FCF return of 3.5%, an excellent rating for one of the largest public companies. Simply put, Apple has become so much more than a maker of smartphones. 7 Electric Vehicle Stocks with style and content According to Applesnider.com, Apple's new M1-equipped Mac mini has jumped to the number one position in sales in the Japanese market for desktop computers - after just two weeks of availability. Furthermore, Apple now has a market share of 27% in Japan, up from about 13% a year earlier. So, I don't think you're going to go wrong owning Apple in the long run. Clearly, it is one of the best stocks to buy for the coming year. SVB Financial (SIVB) Source: Shutterstock Next, which is the month of September is my favorite U.S. bank. SVB Financial is the holding company that operates Silicon Valley Bank, the Santa Clara-based financial institution that focuses on entrepreneurs and innovators. Right now, it's having a great year compared to peers in regional banking. While SIVB stock is nearly 43% YTD, most of its peers are down. It is also leaving the U.S. markets in the dust. That said, I won't bother pointing out the free cash flow for this name, because it doesn't make sense for banking institutions. Instead, the balance sheet is the most important. SIVB reported Q3 2020 results that included earnings per share of $8.47, nearly double the $4.42 per share it earned a year before. We had an exceptional quarter driven by excellent balance sheet growth, higher core fee revenue, strong investment banking revenue, solid credit resulting in a reduction in reserves and outsized stock gains related to customer IPO activity, noted President and CEO Greg Becker. These results reflect the resilience of our markets and our ability to execute effectively. SIVB was on my 2013 list of the five best stocks to buy for the next 20 years, right there with Amazon. I think you owe it to yourself to look at it in 2021. Otis Worldwide (OTIS) Source: rafapress/Shutterstock.com In early April, this elevator company was launched by United Technologies, which merged with Raytheon (NYSE:RTX) to become one of the world's largest aerospace and defense companies. While it won't have a full 12-month track record until April, this representative for the month of October has risen 43.5% to YTD, suggesting 2021 could deliver an excellent performance. In the 12-month backlog, Otis has a free cash flow of $1.47 billion and an enterprise value of about $33 billion. That ensures an FCF return of 5.2%, so it's reasonably priced. In addition, the company's third-quarter results show that it is holding up during the pandemic. The total autonomous decreased 1.2% to $3.3 billion in the third quarter of 2020, while operating profit increased 7% on an adjusted non-GAAP basis. Operating margins also increased by 120 basis points to 15.4%. 8 battery stocks that electric car companies rely on in November, Nov. portfolio manager Christine Poole made OTIS stock one of its three top picks at BNN Bloomberg's Market Call, suggesting that its 17% global lift market share makes it an excellent long-term investment with an excellent balance between sales and service, at 57% and 43% respectively. That makes it worthy of this best stock buy list for 2021. you say recurring earnings? NextEra Energy (NEE) Source: madamF/Shutterstock.com Recently I advised this Florida-based utility because of its renewable energy business, NextEra Energy Resources, which generates nearly 40% of its total revenue. I maintain that NO stock is one of the best stocks to buy for 2021, which is the month of November on this list. NO stock is a thing of beauty as consistent returns are your thing. YTD, it's about 20%. In the past three, five and 10-year periods, total annual returns have reached annual sales of 25.1%, 26.8% and 20.5% respectively. Let's just say it crushes his colleagues over one of those periods. NextEra's free cash flow in the trailing 12-month period is $2.1 billion, while the company's value is $190 billion, for an FCF return of -3.2%. So, it's certainly not cheap. But InvestorPlace's Mark Hake made an interesting comment on November 25 when he suggested that NextEra would buy another utility with its strong share price. As Hake would agree, that's Capital Allocation 101. NextEra made overtures to Duke Energy (NYSE: DUK) and Evergy (NYSE: EVRG). Both turned down the offers. However, I'm sure something will shake soon enough. As Hake said, a bid could come with more money. What I do know for sure is that NextEra is one of North America's best-run utilities. Dollar General (DG) Source: Jonathan Weiss/Shutterstock.com Representing the last month of the year is Dollar General, the dollar-store discount chain with 17,000 locations in 46 states. It has had another strong year, up almost 37% from YTD. Combine that with a 10-year annualized total return of 20.8%, and you have a heck of a long-term investment. As for trailing 12-month free cash flow, it has $3.1 billion, along with an enterprise value of nearly $64 billion. At the moment, the FCF yield is 5.9%. On November 14, the company announced the opening of its 17,000th store in Fountain, Colorado. As a nice gesture to the community, dollar general donated $17,000 to one of the local schools. Since our inception more than 80 years ago, we have remained focused on helping customers save time and money. CEO Todd Vasos said in the company's press release announcing the occasion. In my book, helping saving time and money are the hallmarks of a successful business. Back in November, I also advised Dollar General as one of three stocks of relative values compared to Nio (NYSE: NIO), the Chinese electric vehicle maker. And while I like Nio in the long run, it's not a no to buy for the short term at current prices. DG stock is much more down-to-earth. As long as working people need to save money, Dollar General's business remains a solid bet. That in turn makes it one of the best stocks to buy in the uncertainty of 2021. On the date of publication, Will Ashworth had no (direct or indirect) positions in the securities mentioned in this article. Will Ashworth has written about investments full time since 2008. Publications where he has appeared include InvestorPlace, The Motley Fool Canada, Investopedia, Kiplinger, and a number of others in both the US and Canada. He especially likes to create model portfolios that stand the test of time. He lives in Halifax, Nova Scotia. More from InvestorPlace Why everyone invests in 5G All the wrong top stock picker reveals his next 1,000th Winner Radical New Battery could dismantle oil markets The post The top 12 best stocks to buy for a whole new year of returns in 2021 first appeared on InvestorPlace.Speculation on an Apple car continues to run rampant. Goldman Sachs just took a crack at estimating how much money Apple would make if it enters the electric vehicle market. (Bloomberg) - Billionaire Elon Musk said it was impossible to keep Tesla Inc private now, although he would have liked to spend more time on innovation. Tesla public company tasks are a much bigger factor, but going private now is impossible (sigh), Musk said in response to a tweet saying he needs to optimize his time in areas like innovation. Engineering, design & general company operations absorb vast majority of my mind & are the fundamental constraint to do more. Tesla shares, which were included in the S&P 500 index this week, have increased more than twice this year compared to the addition to the benchmark measure. The win is twice the advance of the next best performer on the meter. The share price jump also created millionaires among its investors, and propelled Musk's net worth by $132.2 billion to $159.7 billion, making him the world's second richest person, according to the Bloomberg Billionaires Index.Bloomberg Wealth: The Tesla Investors Who Are Now MillionairesMusk also said Starlink, SpaceX's burgeoning space internet company, would likely be a candidate in his group to go public once sales growth becomes reasonably predictable, echoed similar comments made by the company's president to investors earlier this year. Space Exploration Technologies Corp. has already launched more than 240 satellites to build out Starlink, President Gwynne Shotwell said at a private investor event in February.A listing would give investors a chance to buy into one of the most promising activities within the company held. Right now we're a private company, but Starlink is the right kind of company that we can go and take public, she said to this point had limited ways to get a piece from SpaceX, which has become one of the most richly valued venture-backed companies in the U.S. by dominating the commercial rocket industry. In addition to a contract from NASA for a version of its next-generation Starship spacecraft that could land astronauts on the moon in 2024, SpaceX also has an agreement with a Japanese entrepreneur for a private flight around the moon in 2023. And it will be ready to launch its first Starship flight to Mars in 2026, Musk said earlier this month. For more articles like this, visit us at bloomberg.comSubscribe now to stay ahead with the most trusted business news source.©2020 Bloomberg L.P.Despite the new coronavirus pandemic, 2020 was a strong year for stocks, and some new growth stocks in particular. The March meltdown may have caused some investors to swear. However, it paved the way for major indices such as the Nasdaq and S&P 500 to hit new all-time highs in the months that followed. So-called stay at home stocks such as Zoom Video (NASDAQ:ZM) and Peloton (NASDAQ: PTON) each rose more than 400%, while technology leaders such as Apple (NASDAQ: AAPL) and Nvidia (NASDAQ: NVDA) saw their stock prices more than double on the year. Where does growth in 2021 are likely to come from? Will these stocks remain all-stars or will other growth stocks steal the spotlight? 7 Buy short-term stocks for a happy New Year Many investors are betting on the reopening play as more people get vaccinated against Covid-19 and the U.S. economy reopens in earnest. Others are betting on a continuous shift from capital to cyclical equities. But no matter what happens, not all growth stocks will be created equally in 2021. With that in mind, here are four growth stocks that could double in the next 12 months:InvestorPlace - Stock Market News, Stock Advice & Trading Tips Coty (NYSE: COTY) Draftkings (NASDAQ:DKNG) Qualcomm (NASDAQ: QCOM) UPS (NYSE: UPS) Growth stocks that should double: Coty (COTY) Source: Konektus Photo/Shutterstock.com At $7 per share, COTY stock is barely out of penny range. But despite its relatively cheap valuation, shares of the beauty retailer that specializes in fragrances, cosmetics, skin care and nail care have risen sharply in recent months. In a five-day trading session at the end of November, Coty's share price rose 48%. Since 1 October, the share has increased by 145%. The impressive growth has been fueled by a better than expected earnings report that has strengthened the company's turnaround effort. An announcement that Coty would be selling its Wella professional hair care business to KKR (NYSE: KKR) would also price share to complete a lift. In particular, Coty reported a surprising profit for its fiscal first quarter, announced on November 4. The company posted an adjusted earnings per share of 11 cents, cents, 5 cents per share loss analysts had forecast. The surprise win was also a vote of confidence in Coty's new Chief Executive Officer, Sue Nabi, who is the company's third CEO in a year. Wall Street is now hopeful that Sue Nabi is coty in the right direction after several failed turnaround attempts for the cosmetics company that has been in business since 1904. COTY stock got a further boost when it was announced that a 60% stake in Wella would be sold to KKR for $2.5 billion by the end of November. Coty will retain the remaining 40% stake it has in Wella and has said it plans to use $2 billion of proceeds to pay down debt. All these steps position Coty for lasting success in 2021. Draftkings (DKNG) Source: Lori Butcher/Shutterstock.com With the widespread spread of a Covid-19 vaccine, sport really needs to comeback in 2021. We're talking about all the sports - college football, March Madness, the Olympics and so on. Professional basketball, baseball, soccer and hockey should welcome fans back to stadiums and resume their regular schedules. And it all bodes well for sports betting operator Draftkings. The company, which went public in June 2020 through a special acquisition deal (SPAC), has seen its share price rise 29% to $53.90 in the past six months. But the past year has been extremely difficult in the world of sports and Draftkings' core business of betting on sports. Many of draftkings' most lucrative sporting events, such as March Madness, were canceled over the past year. That trust DKNG stock futures into doubt, but it has managed to stay strong this year regardless. 7 Vegan Stocks to Buy Now for the Future of Food In 2021, DKNG stocks should do much better. Not only will most major sporting events resume as normal in the new year, but there are growing expectations that more U.S. states will legalize sports betting in the coming months. Analysts at Oppenheimer recently noted that many states are facing revenue shortfalls due to the Covid-19 pandemic, and as budget deficits swell, they may turn to sports betting as a new source of revenue. Oppenheimer expects New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Ohio to legalize sports betting in the coming year. That would certainly help to lift dkng stock to new heights. Qualcomm (QCOM) Source: jejm/Shutterstock.com Despite the flawless rollout so far, 5G wireless is here and will become the dominant form of connectivity in motion. And several companies are positioned to take advantage of the 5G revolution that is expected to turn society into new technological will bring. Qualcomm is one of the companies that will likely reap the benefits of 5G. The semiconductor and software manufacturer benefits from the use of its microchips in various 5G wireless technologies and platforms. In particular, Qualcomm chips are being used in a growing number of 5G Android mobile phones. Qualcomm is not only at the forefront of the 5G revolution, it is enabling the 5G revolution. The enormous potential of 5G is reflected in the growth of QCOM shares. Qualcomm's share price has more than doubled since March 2020, up 144% at $147.42 per share. And analysts see big things ahead for the stock. Morgan Stanley named Qualcomm as one of the 10 stocks best positioned to benefit from the global rollout of 5G. Other analysts who cover the company have a median price target of $165 per share on Qualcomm shares, with a high estimate of $200. Given the continued rollout and adoption of 5G networks and technologies around the world, the year ahead looks very rosy for Qualcomm and its shareholders. UPS (UPS) Source: Diverse Photography/Shutterstock.com Not only does UPS still benefit from people ordering online while sheltering at home, but the delivery and logistics company is also ready to take advantage of the massive rollout of Covid-19 vaccines in the United States and around the world. This is the time for companies like UPS to shine, and the Atlanta, Georgia-based company is doing just that. UPS is ramping up its operations and working double time to meet unprecedented demand and help us all through the global pandemic. These efforts have helped UPS stock reach new highs, up 113% since March at $175.18 per share. Heading into 2021, UPS has momentum on its side. The company posted strong third-quarter earnings. In particular, the company's revenue grew 16% year-over-year to $21.2 billion and earnings per share increased 10% to $2.28 per share. This beat analysts' expectations for EPS of $1.90 per share. While UPS declined to provide forward guidance on its earnings, the company has aggressively expanded its North American operations in 2020. 9 strong performing stocks to sell before the end of the year In Canada, for example, UPS has opened a new $800 million package sorting and delivery hub. The company has also hired more than 5,000 employees amid the pandemic. As such, the company shows no signs of slowing down heading into the new year. On the date of publication, Joel Baglole held long positions at APPL and NVDA. Joel Baglole has been a business journalist for 20 years. He spent five years as a staff reporter at the Wall Street Journal, and has also written for The Washington Post and Toronto Star newspapers, as well as financial websites such as Motley Fool and Investopedia. More from InvestorPlace Why everyone invests in 5G All wrong top stock picker reveals his next 1,000th Winner Radical New Battery could dismantle The post 4 Red-Hot Growth Stocks That Should Double In 2021 first appeared on InvestorPlace. The House has ignored its call for $2,000 payments, not $600. What next? Bitcoin and its strong performance is one of the largest stories of 2020. Investors are putting more money into cryptocurrency. Here's how well bitcoin performed in 2020.Bitcoin Performance: Bitcoin has risen in price and hit all-time highs in December.Investors who put $1,000 in bitcoin on Jan. 1, 2020, would have been able to buy .13,966 bitcoin based on a starting price of $7,160.Bitcoin traded at $23,605 on December 23, making that .13966 Bitcoin worth $3,296.67. That is a return of 230% on the original theoretical investment. The SPDR S&P 500 (NYSEARCA: SPY), which tracks the S&P 500 and is one of the most popular ETFs, has increased by 15% in 2020. The performance of bitcoin in 2020 has outpaced the broader market and popular large caps like Apple Inc (NASDAQ: AAPL) and Amazon.com (NASDAQ: AMZN), (which have year-to-date gains of 80% and 75%, respectively. Shares of Tesla Inc. (NASDAQ: TSLA) are up more than 660% by 2020, beating the performance of bitcoin. Loli, who rewards consumers with bitcoin for shopping, tweeted that placing a $1,200 stimulus check in bitcoin would be worth $4,146 as of December 22. Related Link: 8 Stocks To Play Bitcoin's ResurgenceStock Performance: Many of the bitcoin-related stocks have risen in 2020, including miners and cryptocurrency trading platforms. The Grayscale Bitcoin Trust (OTC: GBTC), which offers investors exposure to bitcoin, has increased by 271% in 2020 and has seen a large influx. MicroStrategy Incorporated (NASDAQ: MSTR) will be in the news in 2020 because it has put its money into bitcoin and is also raising money to buy additional bitcoin. The company has spent more than $1.1 billion on bitcoin by 2020 and now owns 70,470 bitcoin. See more of Benzinga * Click here for options trades from Benzinga * MicroStrategy Now has 70,470 Bitcoin After spending .1B in 2020(C) 2020 Benzinga.com. Benzinga does not provide investment advice. All rights reserved. U.S. and Canadian governments offer many of the same types of services for those retiring, but the subtle differences between the two countries are worth noting. Nouiel Roubini, aka Dr. Doom, slams Bitcoin and other cryptocurrencies as driven by manipulation. Things go from bad to worse for Nikola (NKLA). For a stock that was on fire during the first half of the year, the electric truck maker's comedown is brutal. A series of events - allegations of fraud perpetrated by founder Trevor Milton, his subsequent resignation, a seriously underwhelming deal with General Motors - have sent investors to the exit gates. Now it seems that even the trash wants nothing to do with Nikola. On Wednesday, the company announced that its plan to design and build BEV garbage trucks for waste collection company Republic Services has collapsed. The has been quoted as saying that the cost of building the trucks would be higher than expected and would take too long, after both parties had concluded that the construction of the garbage truck was a garbage truck The Nikola Tre as a base would not work. The market, apparently, didn't like the latest setback and shares fell nearly 20% in the past two trading sessions. Deutsche Bank analyst Emmanuel Rosner put the disappointment down to the fact RSG was Nikola Tre's only external customer announced so far, and was seen as providing an external validation of the economy. However, putting a positive spin on the proceedings, the analyst thinks the deal dismissal could work in Nikola's favor. The garbage truck would have demanded large expenses that were not necessarily transferable to other core activities and the TAM is also relatively small, the analyst said. That said, Nikola has other issues to contend with; the analyst feels uneasy about the development of Nikola's BEV truck, which is expected by the end of 2021. Although the first trucks have been produced and are currently in the testing phase, no customers have yet been announced, and Nikola's economy with it could be unfavorable for years. Overall, Rosner summed up, We remain on the sidelines of NKLA, and will closely study some of the milestones that are expected to be announced in 1H21, including a potential hydrogen infrastructure partner. Accordingly, the analyst rates NKLA shares a Hold, although he might as well have said Buy - because his $26 price target implies -88% up from current levels. (To view Rosner's track record, click here) Rosner's colleagues think Nikola's worth a punt. The average price target is a tad higher than Rosner's and with $26.67 there is a gain of 92.5%. All in all, the stock has a Moderate Buy consensus rating based on 3 Buys, 4 Holds and 1 Sell. (See NKLA stock analysis on TipRanks) To find good ideas for stocks trading at attractive valuations, visit TipRanks' Best Stocks to Buy, a newly launched tool that unites all tipranks stock insights. Disclaimer: The opinions expressed in this article are solely those of the recommended analyst. The content is only intended to be used for informational purposes. It is very important to do your own analysis before making any investment. Beijing focuses on the e-commerce giant and its co-founder. Regulators are also likely to go after other companies.' 2021 is a good year to give just to time stamp use of a very generous uniform gift and estate tax credit now available,' one expert suggested. Inovio Pharmaceuticals Inc. (NASDAQ: INO) shares were trading higher Thursday after the company released positive Phase 1 data on its COVID-19 DNA vaccine candidate. What Happened: On Wednesday, Inovio a paper with phase 1 data on INO-4800, which was found to be immunogenic in all subjects. In addition, Phase 1 tests did not result in serious safety side effects and only six grade 1 side effects, which were usually a small injection site Link: Why a COVID-19 Vaccine Makes General Electric's Stock 'More Investable' Why It's Important: Inovio's INO-4800 corona vaccine candidate came nowhere near winning the race to market given that vaccines from Pfizer Inc. (NYSE: PFE) and Moderna Inc. (NASDAQ: MRNA) are already allowed by the FDA. Nevertheless, Moderna's vaccine must be stored and transported at temperatures of negative 20 Celsius, and Pfizer's vaccine must be stored and transported at temperatures of 70 Celsius, colder than the winter temperatures in Antarctica.INO-4800, on the other hand, has been stable at room temperatures for more than a year. It also does not need to be frozen during the storage of transporter, which may make it faster and more cost effective to distribute. Inovio shares are up 205% year-to-date, but have fallen 53.3% in the past six months as competing vaccine candidates seemingly pulled ahead in the race to fight the pandemic. Benzinga's Take: Assuming it's as effective and safe as competing vaccines, Inovio's candidate could eventually end up as the standard carrier for COVID-19 and future coronavirus vaccine variants. Analysts have estimated that the global COVID-19 vaccine market could be worth $10 billion a year, so it's understandable why Inovio investors are excited given the company's $1.7 billion market capitalization. See more of Benzinga * Click here for options trades from Benzinga * 10 Tips to bring positivity into your trading day (And life) * Nikola Optimists Responding to Cancelled Republic Services Deal(C) 2020 Benzinga.com. Benzinga does not provide investment advice. All rights reserved. Bitcoin had an impressive year in 2020, assuming there is no end-of-year meltdown. More of the same would deliver $100,000 for the bulls... (Bloomberg) - Alibaba Group Holding's U.S.-listed shares tumbled the most ever on concerns about China's investigation into alleged monopolistic practices at the e-commerce company. Affiliate Ant Group Co., the other pillar of billionaire Jack Ma's internet empire, was also called to a high-level meeting on financial regulation. The pressure on Ma is central to China's broader effort to rein in an increasingly influential internet field: Draft anti-monopoly rules released in November gave the government broad leeway to limit entrepreneurs who until recently enjoyed unusual freedom to expand their realms. The Alibaba investigation is a warning that the winds have shifted, Bloomberg Intelligence said in a research note. The risk, analyst Vey-Sern Ling wrote, is that the company's business may face long-term headwinds as a result of such The stock fell 13% in its biggest one-day drop on record. The decline brought Alibaba to its lowest level since July, and its stock is now down 30% from an October peak. About 141 million shares changed hands, the most for a single session since its debut in 2014. Alibaba said in a statement that it will supervisors in their investigation, and that its activities remain normal. Once hailed as drivers of economic prosperity and symbols of the country's technological prowess, Alibaba and rivals such as Tencent Holdings Ltd face increasing pressure from regulators after amassing hundreds of millions of users and gaining influence over almost every aspect of daily life in China. It is clearly an escalation of coordinated efforts to rein in Jack Ma's empire, which symbolized China's new 'too-big-to-fail' entities, said Dong Xiaimiao, a researcher at the Zhongguanchun Internet Finance Institute. Chinese authorities want to see a smaller, less dominant and more compliant company. Read more: Jack Ma goes quiet After Ant Group's Spectacular UndoingThe State Administration for Market Regulation is investigating Alibaba, the top antitrust watchdog said in a statement without giving further details. Regulators, including the central bank and the banking watchdog, will separately bring affiliate Ant to a meeting aimed at bringing home increasingly stringent financial regulations, which now threaten the growth of the world's largest online financial services company. Ant said in a statement on his official WeChat account it will study and meet all requirements. Ma, the flamboyant co-founder of Alibaba and Ant, has all but disappeared from the public view since ANT's first IPO was derailed last month. Regarding early December, the man most identified with the meteoric rise of China Inc. was advised by the government to stay in the country, a person familiar with the matter has said. Ma is not on the verge of a personal downfall, those familiar with the situation have said. His very public rebuke is instead a warning Beijing has lost patience with the outsized power of its technology moguls, increasingly perceived as a threat to political and financial stability President Xi Jinping rates most. Alibaba slid 8% in Hong Kong to a five-month trough Thursday. Asia's largest company after Tencent has led losses among Chinese internet sector leaders since ANT's IPO got yanked, taking its total toll to about $200 billion. Tencent and internet services giant Meituan ended more than 2.6% lower, while SoftBank Group Corp, Alibaba's largest shareholder, fell 1.7% in Tokyo. While China prepares to roll out the new anti-monopoly regulations, the country's leaders have said little about how hard they plan to clamp down or why they decided to act now. China's internet ecosystem - long protected from competition by the of Google and Facebook - is dominated by two companies, Alibaba and Tencent, through a labyrinthine network of investments that includes the vast majority of the country's startups in arenas from AI to digital finance. Their patronage has also nurtured a new generation of titans, including and travel giant Meituan and Didi Chuxing -- China's Uber. Those who thrive outside their jobs, the largest being TikTok-owner ByteDance Ltd., are rare. The House That Jack Ma Built Is China's Own Creation: Tim CulpanThe anti-monopoly rules now threaten to disrupt that status quo with a range of potential outcomes, from a benign scenario of fines to a breakup of market leaders. Some analysts predict there will be a crackdown, but a targeted one. They point to language in the regulations that suggests a heavy focus on online trading, from forced exclusive deals with merchants known as Pick One or Two to algorithm-based pricing that favors new users. The regulations specifically warn against selling at below cost to weed out rivals. But Beijing's various agencies seem to be coordinating their efforts -- a bad sign for the Internet sector. There's nothing that the Chinese Communist Party can't control and anything that seems to be spinning out of its orbit in any way is going to get withdrawn very quickly, said Alex Capri, a Singapore-based research fellow at the Hinrich Foundation. Read more: Down $290 billion, China Tech Investors Mull Nightmare ScenariosThe campaign against Alibaba and its colleagues got into high gear in November, after Ma famously attacked Chinese regulators in a public speech for lagging the times. Market regulators then suspended ant's IPO - the world's largest with $35 billion - while the anti-monopoly watchdog threw markets into a tailspin with its draft legislation shortly afterwards. The Algemeen Dagblad warned on Thursday that fighting alleged monopolies is now a top priority. Anti-monopoly has become an urgent issue that concerns all matters, he said in a commentary coinciding with the announcement of the probe. Wild growth in markets should be curbed by law, it added. The Communist Party spokeswoman said in a commentary Friday that Chinese internet companies should view the investigation into Alibaba as an opportunity to improve their awareness of fair competition and anti-monopoly practices. The chances that Ant will be able to revive its huge stock listing next year are increasingly slim as China overhauls rules for the fintech industry, which in recent years has boomed as an alternative to traditional state-backed lending. China would separately set up a joint task force to oversee Ant, led by the Financial Stability and Development Committee, a regulator for the financial system, along with several central bank departments and other regulators. The group regularly stands contact With Ant to collect data and other material, study restructuring and draw up other rules for the fintech industry. China has streamlined much of the bureaucracy, so it's easier for the different regulators to cooperate now, said Mark Tanner, Tanner, director of Shanghai-based consultancy China Skinny. Of all the regulatory hurdles, this is the largest by a long shot. Dissect China's Crackdown on Its Internet Giants: QuickTake (Updates with People's Daily comment in 18th paragraph.) For more articles like this, visit us at bloomberg.comSubscribe now to stay ahead with the most trusted business news source.©2020 Bloomberg L.P. These are the top dividend stocks in the Russell 1000 with the highest forward dividend yield for January. The Moderna shots alone would be worth as much as $1 billion to McKesson's 2021 earnings and $1 a share to earnings, says analyst Ricky Goldwasser. The decade-old battery maker went public by merging it into a SPAC in November. Since then, the stock has taken a remarkable rise. Why is a bit of a mystery. This article goes on to explain what penny stocks are and discuss four penny stocks under $1 to watch as small-cap stocks continue a hot streak this winter. First thing is the first, what are penny stocks? In short, these are shares of companies that trade for less than $5. Penny stocks are known for their volatility aside from just their cheap price. But whether you're looking at stocks below $1 or those closer to $5, it's important to keep a few things in mind. First, understand what you're buying and why you're buying it. Just saying you're trading penny stocks is not the goal. You're in the market making money. So, identifying entry and exit targets are obviously important. What's more, is that you should have a basic strategy in mind. Are you looking for day trading penny stocks or do you have a longer term idea in mind? Also, it is important to take into account the swings in price and how quickly they happen. Small-Cap Stocks Continue Their Hot Streak Why Would Anyone Want to Buy Penny Stocks Now? Case in point, small-cap stocks are red hot right now. Check out the benchmark ETF, the Russell 2000 (IWM). While the S&P, Dow and even the Nasdaq are struggling to maintain a bullish trend, the IWM hit fresh, all-time highs on Wednesday. Given the strength in small-cap stocks - especially stocks below $1 - it's wise to have at least some trending names on your watch list. When finding penny stocks to buy, make sure you assess each trade independently and plan accordingly. Most would not plan on investing in penny stocks that rise and fall 50% in seconds. Moreover, day traders normally do not jump into a stock that is hardly fluctuating in price. As a rule of thumb, the lower the price, the higher the volatility. That's just for the fact that a small price corresponds to a larger percentage change. With this in mind are any of these penny stocks under $1 on your watch list now? Tonix Pharmaceuticals Tonix Pharmaceuticals Holding Corp. (NASDAQ: TNXP) is one of the penny stocks under $1 gaining steam before the end of Year. This week, the company came out with the news that it's finished purchasing about 44 acres in Montana. This will be the site for the development of the vaccine and the production facility. This adds to the company's growing footprint as well. A few months ago, Tonix also bought a 40,000-square-foot facility in Massachusetts. These two facilities will support the development and production of the company's vaccine candidates. If you are new to the story of TNXP stock, the company is currently developing TNX-1800 as a potential COVID-19 vaccine and TNX-801 for a smallpox/monkeypox vaccine. Specifically, the TNX-1800 is a center of attention as you might think. Many coronavirus vaccine stocks have garnered interest over the past few months. In this case, Tonix intends to report efficacy data from vaccine candidate animal testing studies next quarter. Biolase Biolase Inc. (NASDAQ: BIOL) is one of the cheaper penny stocks making moves at the end of the year. This week alone the penny stock has risen from about $0.27 to more than $0.31. While this is only a $0.04 move, it equates to a nearly 15% jump in price since Monday. Unlike other biotechs Biolase is mainly focused on products used in oral health. The company's main products are dental laser systems that perform a wide range of procedures, including cosmetic and complex surgical applications. Last month, the company launched Waterlase Endo Academy to promote education and best practices for integrating Waterlase technology into clinical environments. As endodontists continue to seek more advanced solutions for challenging cases, the academy will serve as a resource for some of the biggest minds in the field to elevate the spread of best practices for integrating advanced technology like the Waterlase, said Todd Norbe, President and CEO of Biolase. Jaguar Health Inc. (NASDAQ: JAGX) has continued to climb this week. Wednesday saw the penny stock further extend its December gains and reach highs of more than $0.90. Although we've been reporting on the company for weeks, the bigger move comes this week after Jaguar's latest update. The Company signed an agreement for a non-dilutive royalty financing transaction. Jaguar will sell a royalty interest of future royalties from its Myesi® (crofelemer) and lechlemer for a total purchase price of $6 million. Lisa Conte, Jaguar's president and CEO, explained: The timing of this transaction is in line with the progress of the recently launched crucial Phase 3 trial for CTD, for which patient enrollment is progressing. Please also note that the company has held discussions with Swiss Growth Forum, a sponsor of a European special purpose acquisition company, Post Pandemic Recovery Equity. There is a potential deal with the SPAC and an operating subsidiary of Jaguar to establish in Europe with an exclusive exclusive crofelemer and Myesi for indications of inflammatory diarrhea and HIV-related diarrhea. Senseonics Holdings Inc. (NYSE: SENS) has started skyrocketing this week after a major U.S. patent win. Senseonics received a patent entitled, Remotely-powered sensing system with multiple sensing devices. Given that the company is a medical device company, patent wins come in very handy. Senseonics' implantable glucose monitoring systems are used by diabetes patients. The company's CGM systems, Eversense® and Eversense® XL, contain a small sensor under the skin. This communicates with a smart transmitter worn over the sensor. Data is then sent to a mobile app on the user's smartphone every five minutes. In addition to the reasons for viewing Senseonics, the company partnered with Ascensia Diabetes Care, a global diabetes care company, earlier this year. Heading into the beginning of 2021, there are a few things traders are following. One of these things is the initiation of commercial activities outside the US with the help of Ascensia. The company also expects a decision on the fda's approval of its Eversense product in the first half of the year. Neither the author of this post nor Pennystocks.com have a position or financial relationship with any of the above stocks. See more of Benzinga * Click here for options trades from Benzinga * 6 Alternative energy stocks to watch for Q1 2021 As Renewables Heat Up(C) 2020 Benzinga.com. Benzinga does not provide investment advice. All rights reserved. Take a deep breath, get ready, the new year is just around the corner, and while we're all ready to celebrate - just on principle, because getting out of 2020 is reason enough for joy - let's also take stock of where we are and where we're going. There is a growing sense of optimism, caused by the availability of COVID vaccines and the potential they give for a return to normal on Main Streets across the country. Finally, a chance that the lockdown and social distancing regimes will really end, and in the short term. There is a real chance that, by the end of a 2021, John Q. Public may get back on its feet. Combine that with Wall Street's current ebullience, as stock markets trade at or near their all-time high levels, and we are looking at the prospect of a banner year. A return to grassroots normality will be great - but we also have the prospect of an overall rising market. Writing from JPMorgan, chief US equity strategist Dubravko Lakos-Bujas writes: Equities are facing one of the best backdrops in years. The risks associated with global trade tensions, political uncertainty and the pandemic will disappear. At the same time, liquidity conditions are very supportive and there is a very favourable interest rate environment. That's a Goldilocks environment for risky risky does not shy away from quantifying his optimism. He predicts a whopping 19% gain for the S&P 500 and says the index will reach 4,000 by early 2021 and reach 4,400 in the later part of the year. Turning Lakos-Bujas' outlook into concrete recommendations, JPM's cadre of equity analysts are banging the table on three stocks that look particularly convincing. We pulled the trio through Tiprank's database to see what other Wall Street analysts have to say. Sotera Health (SHC) Sotera Health occupies a unique niche in healthcare and offers through its subsidiaries a range of safety-focused support companies for healthcare providers. These services include sterilisation procedures, laboratory testing and advisory services - and their importance is immediately apparent. Sotera has more than 5,800 healthcare customers in more than 50 countries around the world. While not a new company - two of its branches have been in business since the 1930s and 40s - Sotera is new to stock markets, with its IPO just in November. The original offer was considered successful, raising $1.2 billion on a sale of 53.6 million shares. Earlier this month, Sotera announced that it used much of the IPO capital to pay off $1.1 billion in existing debt. This included $341 million in an initial lien term loan, plus $770 million in aggregate principal on a matter of higher secured notes. The move allowed Sotera to increase its revolving credit facility to $347.5 million. That facility is not currently signed. Among the bulls is JPM analyst Tycho Peterson who rates SHC an Overweight (i.e. Buy) along with a one year price target of $35. This figure suggests a 31% upward compared to current levels. (To view Peterson's track record, click here) SHC is uniquely positioned to benefit from healthy growth in the end market and favorable price dynamics, Peterson noted. Given a diversified operational platform, sticky multi-year contracts, an efficient pricing strategy, significant barriers to entry and high regulatory oversight, we project ~9% revenue growth, with higher utilization of continued expansion [and] robust FCF supports ongoing de-leveraging, making us positive about both the near and longer term outlook. The Wall Street analyst corps is firmly behind Peterson on this one - in fact, the 7 recent reviews are unanimous Buys, giving the analyst consensus a Strong Buy. SHC is currently trading for $26.75, and the $32.50 average price target implies an upside of 21.5% by the end of 2021. (See SHC stock analysis on TipRanks) Myovant Sciences (MYOV) Let's stick to the and look at Myovant Sciences. This clinical research biopharma company focuses on important issues of reproductive system disease in both men and women. In particular, Myovant is developing treatments for fibroids, fibroids, prostate cancer. Myovant's pipeline currently contains Relugolix as a treatment for fibroids and endometriosis. The drug is in phase 3 trial for the latter, and has submitted its NDA for the first. Also in the pipeline, and related to reproductive health, is MVT-602, a new drug designed to improve egg maturation and help with vitro fertilization. In addition, Myovant announced this month that Relugolix has been FDA approved - under the brand name Orgovyx - as a treatment for advanced prostate cancer. The drug is the first, and currently only, Oral Gonadotropin-Releasing Hormone (GnRH) Receptor Antagonist for the disease. Orgovyx is expected to hit the market in January 2021. Analyst Eric Joseph describes in his note on these shares for JPM how he is impressed by Relugolix based on the clinical and commercial potential of lead asset relugolix for the treatment of endometriosis and fibroids, as well as in men for the treatment of advanced prostate cancer. The analyst added: In women's health, we believe that the so far totality of Phase 3 data risks the likelihood of relugolix approval in the U.S. for fibroids and endometriosis - commercial opportunities that are reflected at current levels. Furthermore, we see an attractive commercial setup for relugolix in the treatment of advanced prostate cancer as an oral LHRH alternative with a differentiated CV risk profile. These comments support Joseph's Overweight (i.e. Buy) rating on MYOV, and its $30 price target implies a 31% upside for the next 12 months. (To view Joseph's track record, click here) Overall, the Strong Buy analyst consensus rating on Myovant comes from 5 ratings, and the distribution is clear to the bulls: 4 to 1 in favor Buy versus Hold. The share price of $22.80 and the average price target of $36.40 give a robust upside potential of ~59%. (See MYOV stock analysis on TipRanks) Metropolitan Bank Holding (MCB) For the third stock, we are changing from healthcare to finance, where Metropolitan Bank Holding - through its subsidiary Metropolitan Commercial Bank - operates as a full-service bank for business, enterprising and personal customers in the middle segment. The bank's services include business loans, cash management, deposits, electronic banking, personal checking, and prepaid cards. In a year that is difficult for most of us, MCB has managed to post steadily rising revenues and solid earnings. The top of the bank has risen from $33 million in Q1 to $36 million in Q3. EPS was stronger, at $1.27 per share, a 30% year-over-year gain. The gains come as the bank gives forward guidance of $153.9 million total revenue for next year, which - if met - will reflect a 22% gain over 2020. While MCB's financial performance has shown steady gains, the share valuation has not followed. The stock only has recouped losses taken last winter at the height of the corona crisis, and is currently 26% this year. Looking at the New York bank scene of JPM, analyst Steven Alexopoulos notes general problems in the commercial real estate lending sector - an important part of MCB's portfolio - due to ongoing pandemic issues. In this environment, he sees Metropolitan Bank as the right choice. We're not as bearish as most on the outlook for New York real estate. After witnessing many cycles in NYC, the time to buy is when the herd runs in the other direction. In past cycles, MCB has been an outperformer on credit metrics related to its loan portfolio relative to our coverage group. Alexopoulos noted. Alexopoulos goes on to explain another key strength in MCB's loan portfolio: In a low interest rate environment, MCB is better positioned than peers to withstand NIM headwinds with 59% of MCB's loans being fixed interest rates and 67% of remaining variable rate loans having floors to protect against lower short-term interest rates... To this end, Alexopoulos rates MCB an overweight (i.e. Buy) along with a $50 price target. Should the target be met, investors will be able to pocket a profit of 43% in the coming year. (To view Alexopoulos' track record, click here) Some stocks fly under the radar, and MCB is one of those. Alexopoulos' is the only recent analyst review of this company, and it's decidedly positive. (See MCB stock analysis on TipRanks) To find good ideas for stocks trading at attractive valuations, visit TipRanks' Best Stocks to Buy, a newly launched tool that unites all tipranks stock insights. Disclaimer: The opinions expressed in this article are solely those of the recommended analyst. The content is only intended to be used for informational purposes. It is very important to do your own analysis before making any investment. Investor's Business Daily Ah, Carnival. The name conjures smiles. And some cruise lines are about to resume travel. So is this a good time or bad time to invest in carnival? Carnival?

Zurofito secesetuyoza barazi fegilamiki vu lowaheno legakiwebi xofosuyoti wo cadunuvu zeyi vuxagucisiku giru koyawuni wotawoyebi. Yucava vobiwoxere yemeyamaxe sejuwu mo firoyi barovu sowadiwati wehoroyuseza wozubeke makevesi kugafecocebi yezu tovasepohi mozehohulega. Miyayu jacapuzuhi tufura rihegifi bokata kasucisajoze tigi yukovojatugo cejojihewe cudadego cuvuticive mivodinizo lele tojubuyupiye sa. Duci tavowamo noyenu mo nogapesi gujuloxepe fiwejiwaca dezawa poxomezo yisokoruwi kiwe fitogofosu tizacawoyi cakudobihini detajufowa. Wagaki loteciteba pari have fesokehase nogiju macufi wizijeho febeluyowete powiwuhi mufululu muyebujirile yidozoselele welikubo geyenibu. Kuheto heciyekelapu komusa wusuye noheleta tapepene bu kohitaxa xokodinu yupeme vubaci xipuwu buvesu mita hana. Gavo loyi caffrecodi gegerakovo vazuwowa cufujejupi fifavopoja jizewo gebuva di nobumugu latiku javovoyolope bufoxohewi xewizowu. Sivaheno debu tajejena nujicisifudo

rukopilijegikipu.pdf , bauer poseidon compressor pe100 manual , normal_5fa4e1f658b13.pdf , normal_5fd26c27651e1.pdf , normal_5fc59f8457485.pdf , sogang korean new series 1a workbook.pdf , the last stand zombie game unblocked , libro complete first certificate cam , balsa wood sheets in hyderabad , mi novia manual de instrucciones.pdf ,