Find my friends app equivalent for android

There are more to-do managers and utilities available for Android that there is no way we could mention each one. However, after testing several apps and related services, we settled on Wunderlist as the best manager for Android, but it has very stiff competition. WunderlistPlatform: Android Price: Free download of PageFeaturesCross platform, with dedicated apps for iOS, Android, Windows, Mac OS and Linux in addition to a web app to access your pre-when you're in the system without the Wunderlist app installedSyncs all the tasks for your Wunderlist account on the Internet, so no devices to the sync device or third-party mediation services are requiredFeatures home screen widgets, so you can see your upcoming cases without opening the app, not opening the app to add and manage tasks from the mobile app, assign timelines and deadlines to Send Tasks to Wunderlist by email, and maintains an email reminder when the task is due to set you up and make tasks stand out, starring them, adding notes to help run through memory, or sorting them into lists or categoriesOffers multiple backgrounds to personalize your mobile experience/where it's ExcelsWunder. The Android app is great and richly featured on its own, and gives you access to all the features you would like from a mobile manager. You can easily add tasks, move them between categories, or shoot them to mark them as important, change deadlines, and even change the view so you can focus specifically on the most important items that you need to work on. In addition, all your tasks and changes are synchronized with your Wunderlist account on the Internet, so you don't have to sync or push your changes to another device. You can also share your words with other users and collaborate on projects. Also, it doesn't hurt that Wunderlist is available for almost every platform, with native apps for iOS, Windows, Mac OS and Linux in addition to Android and full webapp features. Where it drops ShortWunderlist in the Android app is relatively new, so some users have reported problems getting widgets on the home screen to work just right, or sorting tasks to work. All of them worked perfectly in our tests, but they are worth noting. Also, while Wunderlist allows you to shoot tasks and take notes on them for more links, there is no backing for tagging. Plus- and this great one-Wunderlist doesn't have location awareness at all. It's a con when you consider some of its competition there, but it's not much of a drawback when you consider that Wunderlist is free and its competitors who have a place awareness charge for him. G/O Media can get a commission of 68% from 2 years and 3 months Freeupdate: As many of you have reminded us, Wunderlist does not support repetitive tasks. ContestSwan say there are alternatives to Android's Wunderlist will gross gross Astrid (Free) was very close to taking first place. We've mentioned Astrid several times, most notably in our Lifehacker Pack for Android, and we still think it's a great app. It's free, was one of the first multi-company to-do list managers for Android, and unlike Wunderlist, syncs with Google Tasks and Producteev, as well as its own web application, partly to make up for the lack of a desktop client. If you're already using another web service and want an app that will sync with your Android phone, Astrid is a great alternative. If you're willing to put down money, Astrid has a plugin for location awareness that will set you back $1.49, and a Power Pack for $3.99, which includes features such as home screen widgets and voice support. Taskos (free) is another free option that looks great and has a lot of great features baked into the free version that other apps include in their paid versions or in-app purchases like home screen widgets, alerts, voice action, and Google Sync Tasks. The only downside to Taskos is the lack of web apps or desktop apps that you can use when you're at your computer, all on your phone. In addition, no discussion prior to doing managers will be complete without mentioning ToDo.txt and Todo.txt Touch ($2) for Android, written by our own founding editor, Gina Trapani. To use Todo.txt Touch, the to-do list must be a text file stored in your Dropbox account. Combined with the Todo.txt Command Line Interface (CLI) interface for Windows, and you have an elegant but powerful way to control your dos on the go or at the computer. Another utility, Epistle (Free), works in a similar way. Most other managers for Android are in for free with paid add-ons or freemium department. Re'all (Free) has a great Android app that syncs with Ronalla's web app, but synchronization is often buggy and its best features such as integration with Evernote and Google Calendar, SMS reminders, and location awareness are only available for $19.99/year re'all Pro subscribers. GTasks (Free) is an easy-to-use manager that syncs with and is perfect for people who use Google Tasks. This ad is supported and it will cost you $6.99 to remove them. The task list (free) for Android is another great option that has widgets and colors and organization categories. It is also supported by advertising; $1.99 will remove them. Finally, Remember Milk (free) is another option, and the service is updated just this week to The Android app is free for all users, not just those who are willing to pay $25/year for a professional account. However, even if the app is free, you can only sync with RTM servers every 24 hours and you have to do it manually. To unlock the true potential of the app, you have to pay for it. This is not an exhaustive to-do list of Android apps to say the least. There are dozens in the Android App Market, some of which serve as offline organization tools and others that are only third-party to popular web services. Do you have a favorite we missed? Let us know in the comments below. Lifehacker's App Directory is a new and growing catalog of recommendations for the best applications and tools in a number of these categories. Disney has quite a lot of media ownership these days. They own ABC, ESPN, Marvel, Lucasfilm, and, soon, Fox. This means that there are a bunch of ways to interact with Disney stuff. However, we believe that people looking for Disney apps want more classic Disney characters and experiences. We can definitely help with that. Disney, again, is massive. They have movies, TV shows and music in many genres. We can help you find what you are looking for. Here are the best Disney apps for Android.Disney-ImagineFANDOMMyHeartRadio FamilyInternet TV (link to Hulu)Movies AnywhereMy Disney ExperienceRedditOfficial Disney appsYouTubeDisneyPrice: Free trial / $6.99 per month / $12.99 per monthDisney is the largest Disney app release in recent times. It has a bunch of Disney shows and movies along with content from Disney-owned properties (such as The Simpsons) and some original content such as Mandalorian. It's a huge success for Disney so far, and it's an obvious choice for a list like this. Also, you can get Hulu, Disney and ESPN for $12.99, and it's honestly the best deal to stream right now. It's easily the best Disney app. DisneyNowPrice: Free with TV subscriber loginDisneyNow is Disney's current streaming service. You enter the service with existing information from the TV cable provider and get access to a bunch of Disney TV content. This includes children's shows, cartoons and live action stuff, classic and new Disney characters, and even Radio Disney. Disney is an excellent streaming service, but you'll still get more day-to-day Disney content from this than you have from Disney, and it's still integrated with your cable TV provider if you still have one. Fandom from WikiaPrice: Free with adsFandom from Wikia is a community of enthusiasts who create these little wiki pages for various media properties. It used to be a collection of apps for different fandoms, but now it's one app with every theme available. The app usually provides information about characters, movies, TV shows and even some games. It's a neat way to learn some little things about basically any Disney movie, show, or character. Of course, it's a bit of a niche product. Trivia lovers should definitely try this one.iHeartRadio FamilyPrice: Free/$9.99 per month there are several different versions of iHeartRadio. However, for Disney stuff, we recommend the iHeartRadio family. It has 80 family music stations from a bunch of popular children's shows and Of course, this includes a lot of Disney content. You can go with a station dedicated to Disney princess songs or just hit up to standard Radio Disney for a great big music from Disney. Of course, the full version has all these stations as well so current iHeartRadio fans just need to press the search button to find these stations. The premium version adds unlimited passes and a bunch of other features as well. Internet TV (Sling TV, Hulu, DirecTV Now, etc.) Price: Free/Variest easier (and cheaper) to watch TV than ever before. TV services such as Hulu, Sling TV, YouTube TV, PlayStation Vue and DirecTV now all have a bunch of great children's content. Consequently, they all also have access to the Disney Channel along with a bunch of back-registered Disney content. For example, on Hulu, if you subscribe to a live TV service, you get Disney Channel, but also access movies like Pocahontas. The amount of Disney content on the streaming service varies, but you can at least get an actual feed on all of them. Honestly, it's probably better cable than Disney stuff because you get these on-demand titles as long as you subscribe to the LIVE TV service. In addition, Disney has a Disney, ESPN and Hulu subscription bundle for a pretty big price here. Movies AnywherePrice: Free / Movie Prices vary*Movies Everywhere is probably the best app for movies on Google Play. This is not his own standalone streaming service. It's actually a collection of other movie streaming services. You sign your iTunes, Amazon, Vudu or Google Play. All movies purchased on all these services are now available in one place. The service boasts more than 7,500 movies, and that of course includes tons of Disney movies along with basically every Marvel and Star Wars as well. Disney will most likely have all these movies at Disney when it comes out. Until then, however, this is probably the best place to actually buy a Disney movie and watch it. The app is sometimes buggy, but it's otherwise pretty good. It also comes with Chromecast support. My Disney/DisneylandPrice experiences: FreeDisneyland and Disney World are two of the most popular holiday destinations in the world. They also both have official applications. The My Disney Experience app focuses primarily on Disney World. You can use it to plan your vacation as an interactive park map and you can even buy tickets and merch there. The Disneyland app is the same. The app shows you information such as the expected waiting time, the browser restaurant menu and the interaction with the park map. There are apps for all Disney parks separately, including in Paris, Hong Kong and Shanghai. Those headed to Disney World or Disneyland should definitely have these apps on hand. RedditPrice: Free /$3.99 per month/$29.99 a yearReddit is good for many fans and Disney fans are not The site has dozens of subreddits for Marvel properties, Star Wars movies, and of course, classic Disney properties as well. Also, can talk to other people who like things you like and post things you care about. Either way, it's a great way to read news about Star Wars, Marvel, or other Disney properties and discuss these things with other fans. The premium subscription removes advertising and gives you some extra features as well. Disney's official appPrice: Free (usually) We've said it over and over again that Disney is a huge company. As it turns out, there are a number of official Disney apps for most of these properties. Some examples include the official Star Wars app, the official Marvel app, the ESPN app, the official ABC app, and the list you can go on. These official apps are some of the best ways to interact with a massive list of Disney media companies. For example, you can watch ABC programs in the ABC app or read about the latest Star Wars news on the Star Wars app. You can even read old Marvel comics in the Marvel app. It really depends on what kind of content each property does, but it's still Disney.*YouTubePrice: Free/$12.99 a monthYouTube is an excellent, albeit obvious, choice for a great Disney app. You can basically find any Disney song ever made there along with a ton of clips and memes from various movies and TV shows. It's also a place to see trailers for upcoming movies or shows, reviews of various toys or games, and basically everything else you can think of. Disney has an official VEVO channel with more than 11 million subscribers. But, again, you probably already knew it all so this part of the list is actually just some confirmation bias. Yes, YouTube is one of the best apps for Disney fans. You can additionally pay $12.99 per month to remove ads, download videos for offline use, and you get a few other features. If we missed any great Disney apps for Android, tell us about them in the comments! You can also click here to check out our latest Android app and game lists! Lists!
