Vibrant colors – in flowers, table dishes, even food – improve the lush lake setting. Simple cotton tablecloth and summer flowers dress the food-lined picnic table with minimal effort. 2 of 19 Daisy Decor Galvanized buckets with red gerbera daisies embellished wooden posts. 3 out of 19 Hand-picked arrangements If you don't have a garden to cut flowers from, you can often find seasonal classics such as dairy and roses in the grocery store. Squeezed into a small container like this cobalt blue votive holder, summery daisies are the perfect choice: You can buy them the day before, they are hard enough to withstand a car ride (even with a few fast stops), and it only takes a few minutes to edit them. 4 of the 19 Outdoor Oasis Giant umbrella protects party guests from the glowing afternoon sun, and hanging lamps will illuminate the table come dusk. Citronella candles are mixed with other colourful tea lights to move away from pests, while diners offer light cotton shaws to make up for the chills in the evening. 5 of the 19 Colorful tableware Use durable enamelling so that you do not have any sagging or smagging paper that eventually overturns or rips, and you and your guests can return for seconds (and thirds) with the same plate. Nothing for one day, so the trash is as small as possible – picnic necessity! 6 of the 19 Playful Piñata Lively Palette will give the party its cheerful country look, while the playful piñata ensures that the party will end with services falling from the sky (find one on the talkingpinatas.com). 7 of the 19 Pastel Table Fanciful, intimous and easy to prepare, tea party is fun like no other. Set a scene with fragrant branches of lilac and vintage porcelain surrounded by English rose motifs. Floral-printed napkins, silver spoons, tethered serving pieces, and a shrew of pastel-coloured sugar all add a touch of romantic grandeur. And the chandelier, which hangs from a tree branch, lends the affair a sophisticated charm. 8 of 10 Floral totes For welcome, hang a tote that has eased flowers at the entrance to the party. 9 of the 19 Small Things Personal touches – hand-delivered invitation, warm welcome, beautiful boutique – make a party. 10 of the 19 vibrant flowers extravagant flowers, such as roses, shells, bonunis, and lilac, set the scene, as well as lush arrangements in jugs filled with flowers from their own garden or market. 11 of 19 Throw fun on the back porch Keep the décor simple with fabric banners in playful colors and bouquets of flowers, hand-pulled from the garden. 12 of the 19 Thoughtful Favors Fill a vintage birdcage with fresh or artificial flowers (and birds!) for a unique take on the traditional floral centerpiece. Then pass the miniature boutique as a thoughtful service when the guests leave. 13 of the 19 Blueberry Picnic Table picnic set with blues and green under the attic is a welcome retreat before the summer sun. Blueberry pie, which is in a larger dish and enchanted with a wreath of fresh strawberry branches, serves as the center. Blueberry meringue, layered in a pair of faicient dishes and local goat's cheese served with blueberry chutney, is also tempting. 14 of 19 Set Out Silverware Set silverware in containers. If the back of the head drops down, it is easy to reach for the other. When it's time to clean, load the silverware containers out of the table and take it inside the dishwasher. 15 of the 19 Chill drinks in galvanized buckets filled with ice. This saves space in the fridge and can help you easily whenever you're complaining. Lemonade in bottles makes a refreshing choice. 16 of the 19 Hay Bales Seat rustic bales make of hay make a more darkly suitable seating area than basic folding chairs. Find them at the local farm shop. 17 of the 19 Hoedown Table Setting Three tables grouped and covered with a simple, inexpensive burlap to create a long single dining table for 16 guests; railway lamps provide illumination when night falls. During the break from the dance, guests chat with their neighbors over a plate of fried chicken and sheep biscuit biscuits. 18 of the 19 Sunflower Muffins Miniature sunflower cakes on an antique wire rack encourage guests to help themselves during dances. Lamps hung from tree branches illuminate the path after sunset. 19 of the 19 Dance Floor Festive Paisley bandannas stapled on the juke cble add a splash of color over the dance floor. Floor.
