Chateau d' esclans whispering angel rose calories

The Château d'Esclans is located in an exceptional location, on elevated land near the Gorges de Pennafort, twenty-five kilometers northwest of the ancient Roman city of Frejus on the Mediterranean coast. The first traces of the castle date back to the Days of the Gauls, during which its location served as an observer, which saw intruders ing by boat into the Gulf of Frejus. In 1201 the castle was the original castle or foundation (now the oldest in the region) of the original castle, which gave the Comte de Provence to Gérard De Villeneuve. Inspired by the design of the Tuscan villa, the contemporary castle was built in the mid-19th century. The Château d'Esclans is located in the centre of the Var department, where most of Provençal AOC rosé is produced. The land was occupied for as long as 2,500 years ago, when it was probably used as a lookout for intruders sailing into Frejus Bay. The original castle, from which only the cellar now remains, dates back to before the 12th century. In 1201, Gérard De Villeneuve, part of a wealthy family from Marseille, took ownership of the castle and most of the Vallée d'Esclans, which was eventually sold on land. Two brothers, Sauveur Louis Ranque and François Alexandre Ranque, were next to their own castle, then known as the Terre d'Esclans. In 1875 they sold the property to Joseph Toussaint Caussemille, who made wooden matches near Marseilles. In 1955, the Perraud family owned this property until 1994. At that time, it was purchased by a Swedish pension fund, which produced a small amount of wine, and the remaining grapes were sold to neighboring winemakers. Sacha Lichine enjoyed the Castle d'Esclans in 2006. Today there are 345 acres (140 hectares) of vineyards. The total property has 1055 acres (427 hectares). The primary grape grown on the land is Grenache followed by Vermentino. Other grapes include Cinsault, Merlot, Mourvèdre, Syrah and Tibouren. The castle is known for its old Grenache vines that produce grapes that offer a greater concentration of flavor than younger vines. Since the altitude to the place where the plots are located increases, so does the age of the vineyards. On the highest elevated land are vineyards as old as 90 years old.
